SUMMARY.

An Admiralty announcement is made that the German raider Wolf sank 11 British ships in 15 months.

A movement of British troops has occurred in Mesopotamia. Our patrols are within ten miles of Hit.

The inter-Allied Socialist Conference advocates an international high court and an international legislature.

A German annexation of Livonia, Courland, and Lithuania would flagrantly violate international law, in the opinion of the conference.

During last year the total of subscriptions of all kinds to the hospital was only £9420.

Mr. James, Minister for Education, says that children going to school without boots is rather encouraged.

A coalminers' deputation yesterday informed the Prime Minister that miners wished to work with the Federal Government.

It also asked that the Federal Coal Tribunal should be allowed to go on with its work.

Several grievances were brought under Mr. Hughes's notice.

TAILORING FOR EASTER.
TIME TO ORDER NOW.

Easter falls earlier than usual this year—there is not a month to go from now.

Preparation for that season, and the Winter so soon to follow, means a busy time in the tailoring trade.

Peapes request that orders be placed as early as possible. Good work cannot be "rushed." To make a Suit that will RETAIN its shape the workmanship must be put into it—inside as well as out.

The Peapes standard of Tailoring calls for this exacting care as to detail. Men who are keen to get good material and good making-up of it will find that Peapes' Tailoring embodies both in an eminently satisfactory degree.

We quote:—

BEST TAILORING,
special selection of scarce materials, and hand-making, from £6/6/.

ECONOMIC TAILORING,
introducing a good range of materials specially purchased and held for this department's exclusive use. Made up in our own workrooms under cost-saving systems,
£3/15/ TO £5/15/.

SNOWS ARE—
LIKE ANCIENT ATHENS AND ADVANCED AMERICA—

ALWAYS SOMETHING NEW.

Athens—"The eye of ancient Greece,—Mother of Art and Eloquence"—was noted, amongst other things, for the fact that her citizens, as Paul said, "liked to meet TO HEAR AND TO TELL OF SOME NEW THING."
And between those Ancient and August Athenians ("Men of might and grand in soul, first in the race that led to glory's goal"), the up-to-date advanced Americans, and Snow's, there is a grand parallel—because
SNOW'S HAVE ALWAYS SOMETHING NEW.

SNOW'S SHOW TO-DAY
AMERICAN MODEL COSTUMES.

NO. 1 AMERICAN MODEL:—
Is a Robe in a combination of Georgette and Satin de Soie—a most beautiful creation, worthy of the most expert Parisian artiste. It is in a sweet subdued shade of Mole; the Bodice has dainty box-pleatings of Georgette, the skirt showing over under slip of Old Gold; embellished with Oriental beaded trimming at waist; the whole relieved with Saxe Blue Georgette collar. Front of Bodice and side Panels of Skirt are in Satin de Soie. Sleeves of Georgette, with cuffs finished pin tucks, and strappings of Satin de Soie.
PRICE .... 11 guineas.
NO. 2 AMERICAN MODEL:—
A very elegant combination of Petunia and Cerise. This Georgette Frock has cross-over front in Petunia shade; back of Bodice forms Coatee, finished daintily with oxidised bobs; double skirt forming tunic effect, with waist band of Cerise Silk Velvet, also touches of Cerise Velvet on cuffs—the whole made over Heliotrope Slip, forming a most attractive and striking costume, unique and decidedly choice.
PRICE .... 11 guineas.
NO. 3 AMERICAN MODEL:—
Is in a Midnight Blue—a most clever example of the modiste's art, in good quality heavy Crepe-de-Chine, draped Pannier effect, coming from hips to foot in front; wide swathed Belt, Oriental embroidery, veiled with Georgette; collar and cuffs of Beige shade Crepe-de-Chine; ornamented buttons.
PRICE .... 11 guineas.
NO. 4 AMERICAN MODEL:—
Black Crepe Meteor and Georgette. One of the features of this Costume is the pointed collar at back, smaller over-collar of White Georgette. Bodice has Pinafore front and back. with attention to the teacher's instructions on the subject of what to do in case of Fire, until he came to this one:—
"Above all things," he said, "if your clothing catches fire remain cool."
Then smiles and giggles disturbed his serenity.

If the weather turns hot during the next month or two—which it might do—you will need

"REX"
CAMP PIE

if you wish to "remain cool."

There is no stewing over a hot stove on the days when "Rex" Camp Pie appears on the menu, because it is the ready-to-serve, all-meat dish, that needs only a tasty salad to enhance its flavour and bring out its piquancy. It may be sliced thin for sandwich making. Enough in each tin for 5 persons.

RIBBONS BY THE ROLL,

SHOWING AND SELLING AT FARMER'S TO-DAY.

ALL PASTEL TINTS—
ALL WIDTHS,

FOR MANY PURPOSES.

Like the many-coloured Streamers from a Maypole, pastel tinted Lingerie Ribbons in many widths, from the modest half-inch and quarter-inch to the more pretentious widths, are making a charming sight of our Island Window to-day. Lingerie Ribbons are never a misplaced investment, and to buy them by the roll is economy personified. That is why it is the custom with many women to be well stocked with several rolls—one of each width in the favourite colouring. Women who like variety buy several colourings. Why not you?

IT PAYS TO BUY RIBBONS
BY THE ROLL.

You make an important saving—as you will see by a close study of the following list, which shows the difference you save between yard, dozen, and roll. It is worth considering.

THE USES OF LINGERIE RIBBON
INCREASE DAILY.

Someone is always discovering charming new uses for Lingerie Ribbons. Apart from their dainty indispensability as ties for Camisoles and Nightdresses, modern times demand ribbon garters, ribbon suspenders, ribbon rosettes for baby's hair or bonnet; or a threading of ribbon round baby's waist. Nothing is quite so dainty for these uses as Lingerie Ribbon, especially such as the following:—

"LAUREL WREATH," a dainty satin ribbon, with small laurel wreath design embossed. In colours: Sky, Pink, and Mauve; also in White.

Widths—	¼	½	¾	1	1¼	1½in.

THE COME-TO-STAY PHOTOGRAPH.

Our latest creation is the greatest of all Photographs. The New Embio Portrait has come to stay. It carries all before it, and is better than all the best of the past.
It cannot be approached for ART, STYLE, or EFFECT.
It is chaste in design, harmonious in the blending of complementary tints, and is of distinctive merit.
For Black and White Photos. it is a creation in Greys, while for Sepia Portraits it is a unique blending of buffs, creams, and biscuit tints. Each folder is eminently suited for the particular photo. enclosed therein.
It has a two-flap case enclosing a cut-out mount delicately Indian tinted with dual tints on a plate mark. The photo. shows the mount with good effect. It is flexible, and will not crack or break in carriage.

NOW SEE THE PRICE.
Bromide Portraits (Engraving Black), beautiful and artistic, 15/6 per dozen, or True Sepia Portraits, per dozen.
This beautiful creation is worthy of the first place in any collection, it instantly appeals to the artistic taste.
The ruling fashion. If you do not see our window before going elsewhere you are sure to be sorry.

A BEAUTIFUL GIFT PICTURE.
The Embio is an artistic portrait that will give equal pleasure to the one who gives it and to the one who receives it.

THE ON-VIEW PHOTO.
Not like the ordinary photo, that gets stuffed away, the merit of the "Embio" will impel a permanent view place in the room.

THE CROW

IS THE IDEAL ROADSTER.

You like the modern, smart-looking Clover-leaf Bodied Cars you see running about to-day, don't you? Well, in the handsome CROW CAR we offer you this attractive body style built to a solid Chassis of carefully thought out design.

The Engine is powerful, 20-h.p., having 4 cylinders, with detachable head and half-compression taps. Electric Light and Self-starter are, of course, furnished, with Willard Battery, and the very pleasing and graceful appearance of the CROW CAR is completed by the addition of 5 Wire Detachable Wheels.

Economy of operation is assured with a Zenith Carburettor, and the springing of the car is perfect, due to careful design and a long wheel base.

You will like the pointed nickel Radiator, the smart-looking Hood; and the general finish, such as the paint work, etc., can only be compared with the highest-class English and Continental practice.

Write for explanatory Catalogue, or call and see us.

YOU WILL LIKE THE CROW.

Deliveries from stock are for the time being assured.

J. M. PECK and SONS, POWERS, RUTHERFORD, and CO., and DALGETY and CO., LTD., in conjunction, have received instructions from Mr. G. Francis Syme to Sell by Public Auction, owing to his having decided to sell his Stud Farm, on THURSDAY and FRIDAY, 14th and 15th March, on the Property at Dalry, Healesville
COMMENCING AT 11 A.M. SHARP EACH DAY, the whole of his Celebrated Flock of Stud Romney Sheep, totalling about 1000, and
25 Head HORSES, Draughts, Hacks, and Harness, Brood Mares, and Foals, and young Horses;
265 GOATS, Pure and Grade Angoras.
9 PIGS, Fats.
100 Pairs (about) Pure White Wyandotte Fowls.
And a MOST EXTENSIVE PLANT, in splendid condition, including:—One 5½-h.p. Portable Hornsby Oil Engine (splendid order); 1 Reaper and Binder, Maize Binder, about 10 single, double, and multiple Furrow Plows (both mould board and discs); Tank Plow, 1 Drain Plow, several disc Harrows and Cultivators, Lucerne Cultivator, Seed Drill, 1 large Chaffcutter, 2 Mowing Machines, Thatch-making Machine, 1 Road-making Machine or Grader (very superior), 1 extra heavy Road Roller, 2 Farm Rollers, 5 Scoops, 2 Iron Winches, 1 Furphy Water Cart and Fire Pump, Bullock Waggon, Farm Waggon, 3 Drays, 2 Spring Carts, and a large quantity of Harness and Sundries too numerous to mention.
The Romney Stud is second to none in Australia, and is specially noted for its constitution and trueness to type, and is largely descended from continuous importations made during the last 20 to 30 years from the old country, largely from England's Premier Flock, the property of the late Charles File, of Elham.
The fact that Romneys are becoming every year more and more popular throughout Australasia is emphasised by the annual sale of Mr. Wm. Perry, of Penrose, N.Z., on the 24th January last, when the first 20 yearling Rams averaged 153 guineas, and the whole 70 80 guineas, both world's records. Romneys have come much into favour of late owing to their hardiness, their comparative immunity from most sheep diseases, and their great success as a first cross with Merinos.
The Romneys consist of 154 Stud Ewes, imported from England or their progeny; 109 Stud Lambs of 1917 drop from above Ewes; 28 Maiden Stud Ewes, lambed 1916, bred from above Ewes; 250 Pure Flock Ewes; about 400 Pure Flock Lambs, 1917 drop; 20 Stud Rams, registered, including 2 imported Rams, and balance progeny of imported Sheep.
The best of the Studs will be sold singly, and the others in pens to suit buyers.
NOTE.—All aged Ewes and culls have been sold, so that all the Breeding Ewes now in the stud are picked sheep.
The Sheep and Goats will be sold on THURSDAY, 14th, and the Horses, Pigs, Fowls, Machinery, and Sundries on FRIDAY, 15th March.
All Stock will be put on trucks at Healesville or Killara free of charge to buyers.
Railway traffic arrangements will be advertised later. Catalogues in course of preparation.
EVERYTHING FOR ABSOLUTE AND UNRESERVED SALE.

LET ME SAVE YOUR TEETH

Don't let any dentist talk you into having out a tooth that may be saved. I specialise on Crown, Bridge, and Pivot Tooth Work, and I know that I DO NOT PULL ONE TOOTH where less efficient skill takes out hundreds.

A tooth has to be exceptionally bad if I cannot save it, either with gold, amalgam, or what is becoming increasingly popular—my invisible fillings.

Every day some former patient drops in to congratulate me on the consistency of my practice. People for whom I have saved teeth eight, ten, and twelve years ago and more, and who find these saved teeth as sound and as good to-day as when they left my chair.

I claim that no plate work excels mine, but I advise plates only when better results cannot be accomplished with my exceptional crown, bridge, and pivot tooth work, or when the teeth, through neglect, are too far gone to be saved by either gold, amalgam, or my increasingly popular invisible fillings.

ADVICE FREE.

Call and see me at your early convenience. You are at liberty to accept or reject my advice as such. I will not advise anything for you that I would not suggest for myself if I were in your position. All operations, extractions, etc., absolutely painless.

WAR-TIME READERS.

War-weariness has many ways of showing itself. The word has become quite common of late, not only here, but all over the world. Out of every twenty people about eighteen will avow that they are weary of hearing about the war. There is such a dreadful monotony about the news. So much killing and destruction after a while work a kind of deadness and numbness in the minds of all, and the most terrible events can be heard of with calmness. Yet the war and its work go on. The only people who dare not show war-weariness are the soldiers and the workers. The men who are fighting arise to the grim struggle every morning as if they were going fresh and keen into a new struggle, and the workers behind the line go about their daily toil in a businesslike fashion, while women workers, whether in munitions or on comforts funds or Red Cross activities, keep on to all appearance unwearied. They have not time to be weary. Work fills the minds of them all, and prevents gloomy thoughts overwhelming them.

But all cannot be actively engaged in work of public usefulness. Hundreds of thousands of men and women are just "carrying on" in ordinary fashion, helping where they can, and perhaps regretting keenly that they are not actively engaged. Other men and women belong to the class of those who have shunted the war off their own shoulders since the beginning. Now they are absolutely fierce with anybody who tries to shake up their lethargy. For such persons one can only feel contempt, but for a large army of those who are just "carrying on" war-weariness has set in in rather an acute form. They feel so saddened and depressed that their powers of energetic expression, whether in word or in deed, are weakened. War, war, always war, they think of nothing else, until the weariness becomes almost unbearable. For this kind of depression reading is a very powerful anodyne. Blessed is the woman who has already formed the reading habit, not just the habit of taking up the latest novel to while away an idle hour, but the habit of going to a book as to a comforting friend. Women who read in this way fly to their favourite authors for comfort, and of course they are not sent empty away. Dickens, Thackeray, the Brontes, are all laid under contribution again to help to cheer these dreadful days, and a sign that the old authors are just as popular as ever is furnished by a most interesting series of critical articles now running in the "Queen" dealing with the Victorian women novelists. Besides the greater names, other luminaries, such as "Ouida," Mrs. J. H. Riddell, Mrs. Craik, Mrs. Oliphant, are discussed, and the chats about their works bring back to memory pleasant recollections of old friends such as "Pascarel"—which deserves reading again if only for its vivid description of North Italy, "Geo. Keith of Fen Court," "John Halifax," and others, also the "Daisy Chain" and others of that kind from Miss Charlotte Yonge's pen.

A whole class of readers has been weaned from war stories. War-weariness shows itself in their dislike of war fiction. "No war books!" these readers say to the librarians who are perhaps offering "Mr. Britling," "The Red Planet," or MacGill's latest. Hence a number of authors are now writing pleasant stories, almost ostentatiously dated in pre-war times. American fiction is deservedly popular, for books like "The Light in the Clearing," by Irvine Bacheller, have an educational value. They teach us about the early days of American history, and we get to know more of the fine men who helped to build up that mighty nation. A new Australian writer, H. H. Richardson, is taking up the same line with Australia, and writing stories that bring in real characters in Ballarat in the 'Fifties. Marcus Clarke, of course, showed the way in this field, and it is one that ought to yield a rich harvest. Australians have good memories, and any little thing about the past is always certain of finding an interested group of hearers. In this way, either in renewing old friends of the dear days of peace, or in making new ones who discourse of the same happy period, many women are allaying to a slight degree their war-weariness.

COUNTRY SPINNING.

The attention of the Red Cross workers throughout the State has for some time past been turned to the Red Cross Spinning Competition arranged by Mrs. Blaxland (head of the Spinning Industry). Interest was at its keenest on Friday week last, when the results were published.

The prize for the best country spinner went to the township of Yass, and was won by Mrs. Percy Ford, a member of the Red Cross Branch there. This branch was formed at the outbreak of the war early in August, 1914 with Mrs. Browning (Mayoress) as president. After about a year's presidency Mrs. Browning went to Sydney to live, and took up spinning at Primrose Buildings. In February, 1917, Yass decided to add spinning to their other activities and Mrs. Browning went up as instructress. Since then the Spinning Industry has been one of the most active departments of the branch. A second depot has been opened, and the five wheels are in use morning, afternoon and night for the spinners. Offshoots of the Yass spinners are to be found in the neighbouring districts of Bowning, Murrumbateman, and Jeir, whilst the country women come many miles to learn with a view to spinning for themselves later on.

The Yass district is noted for its sheep and the good wool, and doubtless this helps the work of the branch.

In all, about forty spinners have passed through under able tuition of Mrs. Ford (Head of the spinning) and Mrs. Cusack, second in command.

All wool spun at Yass is worked straight from the greasy fleece, notwithstanding the outcry of the sheep men, who do not like to see the members handling "dirty" fleeces. All the wool is combed with the steel blade of a shearing machine just before spinning, and it is wonderful the difference this makes. The black spun wool is, of course, knitted straight away, but the white skins are dyed first. Miss English dyes most of the wool used by the branch. After experimenting with gum leaves and walnut leaves, the latter were decided upon. Miss English's method is to boil a kerosene tin full of walnut leaves with what water it will hold, and then boil the skeins in the liquor using no soap.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Aborigines.—("Lavinia"): Your best plan will be to get into touch with the Aborigines' Protection Board, No. 5 Richmond-terrace, Domain, Sydney.

Meaning of Word.—"Blighty": The word is Hindustani, and is really Belati, meaning home. The Tommies have given it a pronunciation of their own, and "back in Blighty" is a common expression, which signifies "home in England."

Regulating Heat.—"Coniston": It is impossible to lay down any hard-and-fast rules regarding the regulating of the oven heat, for the reason that stoves differ. One's own experience should be the best guide. Sponge cakes should always be put into a cool oven. If the oven is too hot at first the cake will rise too much, and will boil over. A gentle heat, gradually decreasing, is correct. Regarding your other query, we are sorry to be unable to suggest any list. [illegible] few of the journals are considering such matters. Later on there may be a return to the [illegible].

Honey Beer.—(H.D.): Take 10 gallons of water, 2 gallons of honey, one handful of dried ginger root, and two lemons, cut in slices. Mix well together, and boil for half an hour, carefully skimming all the time. During the boiling add 2oz of hops. Remove from the fire, and when the liquid is lukewarm put in a slice of toast, thickly smeared each side with yeast. Place in a cask, and let it work. Leave for three weeks in the cask, with the bung out, placing a piece of muslin over to prevent insects falling in. Fill up each day with a little of the liquor kept back for the purpose. Then strain and bottle.

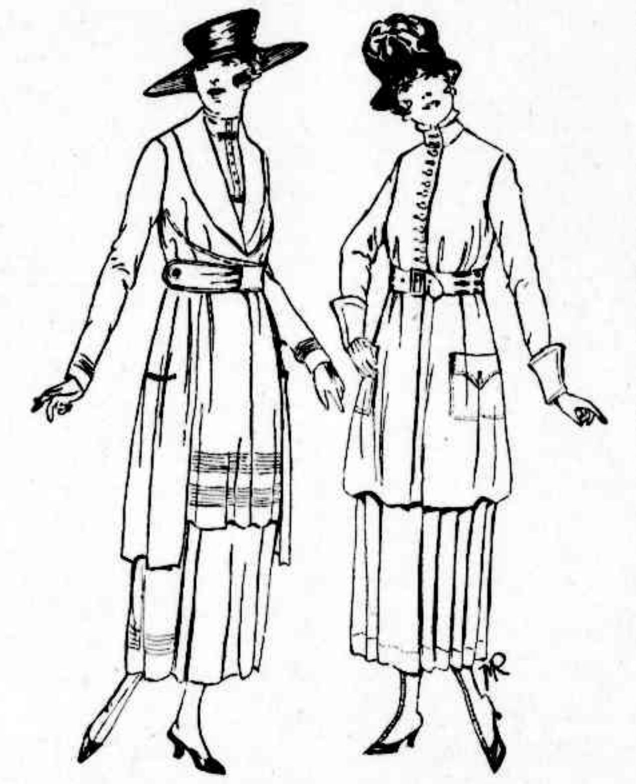
Waterproofing.—(A.T.F.): Paint both the new and the old coats with the following mixture: One pint of double boiled oil, one-eighth of a pint of terebine, and a quarter of a pint of Japan goldsize. Warm over heat, and stir well together, then add sufficient lamp black to colour. The preparation will turn thin, and will form a lustrous coating. A better result may be gained if the oilskins are dried in a room of about 90 degrees. If, however, the old coats are in a very bad state they should be boiled before the new dressing is applied.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

FRIED POTATOES.

There are cooks who put into their pan, say, a tablespoon of fat to a cup or two of sliced raw, or mashed boiled potatoes, and then stand the pan on the stove and serenely leave it, while they busy themselves over other household matters, until they either "smell" the potatoes burning or "feel" they may need turning, when they bustle in and perform the useful office and hurry away again.

But this is not the French cook's way of dealing with potatoes—and let us hope it is never the Australian's. The correct way to proceed is first to procure a sufficiently large and deep pot or pan, and to fill it quite generously with fat. The fat may be either suet rendered down, beef, mutton, or pork dripping; lard, butter, margarine, or oil. (Lard alone is expensive; a mixture of margarine and oil is said to be preferred by the best cooks.) There is no need at all to shake one's head dolorously over the expense of one's frying medium. Instead, have several small jars, with lids, and certain distinguishing marks about them. This fat that has fried fish, let us strain and pour into the white jar; this fat has fried sausages or bacon, into the yellow; while this other, that was used for the apple or banana fritters, may, nay must, go into quite another jar with a very distinctive mark about it, to remind one it has had to do with sweetness. These small jars are other of the "ways to avoid waste" spoken of last week. Fat that has had to do with onions must always be kept apart from fat that was used for other and more delicate frying. But fat that has been used for frying can be used again, yet again, and now to return to the potatoes. The best for the purpose as giving the least trouble are large and somewhat longish ones, and they should be cut in finger-shaped pieces, lengthwise. The potatoes, of course, should be raw, and carefully peeled. Having pared and washed them, the next thing is to be sure they are perfectly dry—half dry, or damp even, will not do. They must be dried thoroughly with a cloth.



COATS AND SKIRTS FOR AUTUMN WEAR.

The next step, of course, is to plunge them into the fat—which has passed boiling point—either in a wire basket, or if no such convenience is at hand, without it. If quite covered with fat, they will require no moving about until they turn golden brown, when they should be quickly removed from the pan, drained free from fat, sprinkled with salt, and, if liked, pepper, and turned into a very hot dish. Everything about these potatoes should be hot, and after they have been drained they ought to be dry enough outside to be eaten with the fingers without any sensation of grease being felt.

* * * * *

Fishmongers are displaying an ample supply of excellent fish. Nothing can exceed the delicacy of the whiting and garfish—a fair sized sample of the former may be bought for 1s and a dozen of the latter. Since it is Lent and many of us are expending money for fish that erstwhile found its way to the butcher, we find economy forced upon us. Garfish will make an excellent dainty dish for a small family gifted with small appetites, but for a large family with robust ones, mullet, schnapper, blackfish, and such like fleshy fish will be found always more economical; and the marketing housewife on saving bent should make her way to the nearest Statefish shop for these. The saving she will effect by so doing will surprise her.

* * * * *

The fruiterers' windows are less attractive than a few weeks ago. The full beauty of our summer fruit has passed. There still remain a few peaches at 1s a dozen worthy of purchase; pears at 9d, and up to 2s a dozen; beautiful Jonathan apples at 1½d and 2d a piece; rock melons, grapes, pineapples, and quinches. To-day is the very hour for the making of quince jam, jelly, and honey. For those who like to make the English fruits into preserve there is now coming over frequently from Tasmania, raspberry, gooseberry, and black currant pulp. This may be ordered, the fruits also, in certain amounts to be delivered at one's door, from any of our large city merchants. There are those housewives amongst us who will only preserve such fruits, and this will, therefore, be to them a busy month. Prices, etc., vary, with the fruit merchant. It is better to write or telephone to one to send a price list of the Tasmanian fruits. For quince and apple preserving there are fruit-growers in the fruit districts at our very doors who will deliver these fruits at from 3s 6d to 4s a bushel (the best way to buy for jam making), trainage paid.

Vegetables are as plentiful as last week. There is an abundance of tomatoes, and as there is also an abundance of apples, of course, one should get straight to work making apple and tomato chutney. Cabbages are perhaps our cheapest and most useful vegetable at present, and curried cabbage will serve well, if treated well, as a meat substitute in Lent. Vegetable marrows are good, and good stuffed with forcemeat as a main dish, as well as a vegetable one. Then we have an abundance of root vegetables; also peas, beans, and new potatoes. It is not easy yet to obtain reliable old potatoes.

TO PRESERVE BUTTER.

"I saw an inquiry by one of your readers as to a method of preserving butter," writes a Bibbenluke correspondent. "The following plan is perhaps the best for cooking purposes, as the butter being melted goes into a smaller space, and keeps quite sweet for a year. I am using some now for cooking, making cakes, etc., which I put away nearly a year ago. My method is:—Put the amount of butter you wish to preserve into a saucepan and bring it to boiling point; then put on the side of the fire to simmer. Keep skimming the white scum which rises to the surface, till it is clear, then put on one side till the rest of the white butter milk sinks to the bottom; carefully drain the pure fat off into a jar. The next lot of butter you wish to put away can be poured on top of the first after being treated in the same manner. And so on until the jar is full. Tie a piece of clean rag over the jar to prevent dust entering. Treated this way it will keep for 12 months and is excellent for cakes, etc., though I am told it is better for eating purposes when put into the boiled briny solution."

MELBOURNE NOTES.

As efforts to induce the Federal Government to create a women's army auxiliary corps on the lines of the British W.A.A.C. have failed, an attempt is being made to form an association and to organise a corps privately. The intention is, when the numbers justify it, to approach the Government again, and urge the organisation of the corps for service behind the lines on the Western front, or elsewhere, as the military authorities may decide. There are many women in Victoria who would be willing to join.

Interest is being shown in the examination for the various exhibitions to be awarded in connection with the University Conservatorium of Music. Professor Laver states that owing to the success of the interstate public examinations in music three full board's exhibitions will be awarded this year. In addition, three Ormond entrance scholarships and four other exhibitions will be awarded.

The birth and death rates for Victoria in 1917 were the lowest ever recorded for the State. The marriage rate was the lowest experienced for twelve years. A satisfactory feature of the figures is the great reduction in the death of infants, which numbered only 1873, as against 2553 in 1916, 2420 in 1915, and 2826 in 1914. The infantile death rate—5.67 deaths per 100 births—was 17 per cent. below the lowest rate hitherto recorded for the State.

The Victorian Women Teachers' Association has held its first meeting. Miss M'Donald (president) is confident that the membership list will increase rapidly. The association has decided to seek affiliation with the National Council of Women.

The South Melbourne Council has decided to establish an infant welfare centre. Besides the imparting of instruction by nurses and doctors, the former will make periodical visits to the homes of infants, to ensure that the proper treatment is being applied; that the infants of the district receive proper food and fresh air, and that mothers are cared for during the nursing period.

VERONICA.

WAR'S WRACK.

Dr. Charles Horsfall Armitage (brother-in-law of Mrs. W. Armitage, of Snell Cove, Mosman), who left Sydney in 1915, has returned from America. Two years were spent by him in Northern France with the R.A.M.C., and the remaining year in post-graduate work in England and America.

Dr. Armitage gives many interesting and even thrilling accounts of his varied experiences. He records the merciless fire of the guns when they open their brazen throats, the death-dealing shells and shrapnel, machine-guns, and rifles, and the greenish-yellow gas cloud swept by a sighing breeze and seen in the distance like a curtain of fairy gauze. But that other side of the dreadful picture—the desolation and the shattered homes, the ruin of life and hope, the houses cut in halves with, perhaps, one wall remaining with its hangings and its pictures; the children torn from their parents, and the women of France, all in mourning. And, like an emblem of hope upspringing, the meadows behind the lines, bright with cornflowers, daisies, and buttercups, the indomitable heart of "la belle patrie." These are depicted by Dr. Armitage in graphic language. The women of England, he says, are working to their utmost. The women of America have not yet realised, but are being surely organised. Their great preachers inveigh against waste and luxury. Unless these are fought like the foe himself, a great Nonconformist preacher prophesies that next year will bring food riots. Stirred by his thundering condemnations of the sins of luxury, his audience even applaud in church. America is now in not only for the great military struggle, but for the years ahead, after the war, when Prussian kultur will try to win back its old prestige. There is a constant urging of organised opportunity, education, and equipment, particularly for the youth of the nation, so that in the years to come, Germany will have nothing to give America.

SOME USEFUL HINTS.

The use of so many gas stoves has thrown a great many ovens out of work. This is a good way to utilise an unused oven. Arrange paper on its shelves, see that the ventilators are closed, and use it as a cake and bread cupboard or for storing biscuits. One stove I know of is lined entirely with white paper, and a very nice little cupboard it looks. Of course, any other things, such as tea and dry groceries, may be placed in a stove, or any thing in tins; but it is rather too close a storing-place for jams or butter. For bread it is excellent.

In these days when food is so dear the careful housewife is glad to avoid waste. This is worth remembering: any left over boiled eggs may be prepared in this way, when it will be impossible to tell them from freshly boiled ones. Bring some water to the boil, put the eggs in, and allow them to boil for two minutes.

This unusual way of preparing mashed potatoes is most successful. Pour salted boiling water over the potatoes, and boil them till they are tender; drain off the water, and add as much milk as one would use to mash them in the usual way, and a lump of butter, some pepper, and a little more salt if necessary. Put them back on a low gas flame (with the lid of the saucepan tight on) and let them stew for about five minutes. Mash them well, and beat till light. When prepared in this way the potatoes have the taste of the milk right through them.

A.G.

A meeting will be held at the Oxford Hall, Liverpool-street, at 3 p.m. to-day to form a comforts fund for the 8th Machine Gun Company.

A garden fete in aid of the War Chest will be held at Normanhurst, Ashfield, on Thursday, March 7, from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., under the auspices of the old girls of the school, instead of the usual function on Old Girls' Day.

The committee of the 7th Field Artillery Brigade Comforts Fund, Terranora-building, Bailly-lane, has decided to open the depot an extra day each week—Wednesday—for knitting only. Wool will be given out to those who will work it up. This fund is taking part in a refreshment tent at the Easter Show.

WEARY IN WELL DOING.

The writer of a letter to your page on February 20, writes A. Vine Hall, hardly can have been to the War Chest Depot lately or she would have noticed a considerable falling off in the number of socks sent in, showing plainly that there are not so many people knitting—a fact that has been recognised for some time. Neuritis may be partly to blame, but it is to be hoped not to any great extent, though it is the most industrious knitters who are most likely to suffer. The extremely high price of wool may be another cause for, though there is plenty of wool to be had from the various depots, the socks, when knitted, naturally have to go back to the place the wool came from, and the price of enough wool to make a pair of socks for a friend is often a serious consideration. However, now that it has been pointed out to the Defence Department that there are not so many uniforms required for the present number of recruits as there were for nearly three times as many, perhaps they will reduce their order and so allow the woollen mills to supply wool suitable for knitting at a more reasonable price. But it looks very much as if the real reason for the falling off is the number of people who have become weary in well doing. The novelty has worn off, and the interest is not so great as it was. At first very few girls would have anything to say to a man who did not volunteer; now we hear of girls saying that they do not want their friends to enlist, as it would be so dull without them. As if their amusement was the first thing to be thought of. How much is due to war-weariness it is impossible to say, but the result is the same, and part of it is that the supply of socks is becoming seriously reduced.

A TWOPENNY TEA PARTY.

A cup of excellent tea with cakes or biscuits for the same sum of 2d! It sounds alluring in these expensive times.

The "wanderer" in Camperdown can get a glimpse of this tea party any business afternoon by visiting the out-patients' department at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital. There each afternoon in the big cool waiting room, surrounded by the doctors' surgeries, sit the patients—truly so named—quietly chatting and awaiting their turns. Some have been there for hours, and will wait longer, and perhaps lunch was missed, and the women, especially with little ones, grow weary. The arrival of the teapots at 2 o'clock is at least a diversion. Tea is carried round to all who order it, and heartily appreciated. Should there be cakes left after the orders are completed, word is sent to the wee bargain hunters who peep shyly round the tea enclosure with their pennies, and by the contented look on the little faces one sees their bargaining has been just all right. Occasionally the call comes for the patients before the tea is nearly finished—such a nuisance. But the ushering is done by the porters in such a quiet and courteous manner, and the waiting has been so tedious that no one is sorry to move on. For folks from a distance, and tired mothers nursing sick children, the tea must be a boon. Later on in the dispensary, where a further short wait occurs, tea is also served.

This tea is supplied daily by the workers of the Australian Army Medical Comforts Fund, and is by no means a charity, but a business arrangement which pays for itself, though of course it is merely run as a convenience to the out-patients. As the privelege of the 2d tea can only be enjoyed by them, the same workers carry on a large tea room, in what is for the present a disused ward. Here we are only too pleased to welcome the public, and the profits go to benefit the soldiers, through the A.M.C. Comforts Fund. All cooking is done on the premises by voluntary workers. Everything is home-made. Members of the staff, students, patients, and their friends all find their way to our tea room, and certain of the girl students have discovered that the earliest customers get, not the early worm, but piping hot scones from the first baking.

Some folks there are who do not care to leave the bedsides of their dear ones, even for meals, and for these trays and any extras required are provided. All works harmoniously, as it should, with much kindness and courtesy shown us by the highest to the lowest of the hospital staff.

WHEATLESS WORKERS.

"L.H.," Kirribilli, enters a plea for the wheatless workers of the old land.—"Across the water comes the cry 'We want wheat' to the women of Australia," our correspondent remarks. "This cry is one which cannot long go unheeded for it appeals to a sense largely developed in us, the sense of hospitality. We have got full and plenty here, let us hold out the hand with a loaf of bread in it for the workers in need. Let us call for tenders from shipowners for a suitable vessel to carry the wheat, and let us load up as soon as possible and send it off. We have done much, but not too much, for the fighters, it is up to us now to do something for the workers. For it is quite certain they cannot long work without bread. Let each Australian woman 'shout' a bag (large or small) of wheat, to be sent to the worker in the Allies' cause. It would be a splendid and timely gift, and a notable day when we could see the first ship 'crossing the bar'—carrying some of our wheat where it is so much needed—and will be appreciated. If a committee of women is appointed I will subscribe and help all I can to raise funds for this purpose."

The executive of the Women's Reform League has taken up the problem of supplying wheat to the workers in England. The desirability of bringing pressure to bear upon the authorities in the direction of utilising interstate steamers to transport wheat across the Pacific is under consideration, and the stimulating example of Canada and the United States is pointed out as a means to the end in view.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

INDIAN CURRY.

This is a popular dish in India, where it is largely used. Take the meat (any kind of cold meat may be used), cut into small squares, a little salt and sugar, about two teaspoonsful of treacle, a half-cup of gravy, a dessertspoonful of curry powder. First of all place two tablespoonsful of butter or dripping in the saucepan, add about two cups of liquid thickening, made of milk and flour, just before serving. Simmer only long enough to heat the meat right through, but no longer. Serve on a hot dish with a sliced lemon and an edge of well-boiled hot rice.—PATTIE PANNE.

TOMATO SOUP.

As a change from ordinary soups this cannot be improved upon, and it is very easily made. Tomatoes, about four to six, according to size, or in weight about 2lb, two ounces of butter, two ounces of flour, two pints white stock, a small quantity of sugar, pepper and salt to taste. Take a clean saucepan, and boil the tomatoes and stock for about an hour. Add also a little cream. Pour out into a saucepan containing the butter and flour, and stir together. Gradually add the strained soup stirring till it boils and gets thick. After seasoning, pour into a hot tureen, and it is ready to serve.—PATTIE PANNE.

AN EASY SAVOURY.

Ingredients: A pint of boiled rice, two ounces of grated cheese, half a dozen mashed potatoes, one hard-boiled egg, brown sauce.

Method: Boil the rice carefully in slightly salted water, drain it well. Season and mash the potatoes, form them into a slab, and put it into a hot dish. Put a layer of cheese over it, and cover with the rice. Over this add the sliced egg, and sift the remaining cheese over it. Put the dish in a quick oven to brown the top, then serve at once with brown gravy.—PATTIE PANNE.

PICKLED BEETROOT.

If people only knew the nutritive qualities possessed by the beetroot they would have it on the table much more frequently than they do. I have recently been busy pickling this vegetable, and was quite satisfied with the result. It is essential to use only fresh, very red beetroot. First of all they have to be boiled until they are perfectly tender, and then removed from the fire. Afterwards the skin must be peeled off them, and the beetroots cut into a wheel or any other fancy shape. Then place the slices in a jar. Afterwards boil sufficient vinegar to well cover the shaped beetroot, and add thereto a few slices of horse radish, a little sliced ginger, and mace. When this mixture has boiled sufficiently, take it off the stove, and pour it whilst hot over the beetroots in the jar. Then firmly seal the jar in the usual manner.—ALICIA.

TO STRENGTHEN SHOE LEATHER.

A process to lengthen the life of boot and shoe soles, and also to make them easier on the feet for walking over rough ground, should be of interest to people living out of town. Rub new or half soles with a cloth dipped into hot linseed oil until the soles will not absorb another particle, then put the soles aside a couple of days to dry. Three applications should be sufficient.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

The French-Australian League of Help never grows war weary. Its laudable activities in providing clothing and comforts for the French soldiers and the sufferers by the war are as well-directed and continuous as in the early stages of the struggle. A cablegram was received this week by Miss Gurney from France through the Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris, intimating that 38 double bales of clothing, boots, and other necessaries had safely arrived in Paris, and are being distributed among grateful recipients. Some of the league's consignments in the past have been lost through submarine sinkings, but as the goods were insured, the loss was made up, though, owing to the scarcity of materials, the league finds it difficult to replace such losses.

* * * * *

The Women's Reform League is taking an active interest in the sixth war loan. Booklets have been issued to all branches in suburbs and country, setting forth the advantages to be derived from subscribing to the loan. Mrs. Bogue Luffman is exerting a personal interest in the matter, and her efforts in this direction are being worthily supported by the members of the league.

A progress report of the Women's Reform League's Battleplane Fund shows that steady progress is being made. The Cheer Oh Girls gave a successful entertainment at Parramatta last week in aid of the fund, under the direction of Mrs. John Waugh. Granville will hold a continental this week, and similar efforts have been organised at Chatswood and Arncliffe. The fund will be supplemented by an entertainment, to be given by the Walter Bentley Players and the Girls' National League at the Repertory Theatre on March 13.

The Sunshine Camp, being held near the yellow sands of Dee Why by the Girls' Realm Guild, is proving very successful. Children from the slum areas and the country are given an opportunity of enjoying themselves at the seaside for a fortnight, and as some of the youngsters now in camp had never seen the sea, the delights of the sunshine and surf and other seaside attractions to these little denizens of the squalid quarters may be more easily imagined than described. Those interested in child welfare will be welcomed at the camp, when they will be afforded an opportunity of seeing what is being done to brighten the lives of the slum children. By communicating with Mrs. Ormsby, at the Dee Why Camp, intending visitors will be afforded all information. With a few exceptions, all the campers are children, whose fathers are at the war.

Mr. William Monie, senr., of the Glebe, has given to the Voluntary Workers' Cafe, in Elizabeth-street, of which one of his daughters (Mrs. Bissett Amess) is a member of the committee, a block of land at Arncliffe, sufficient for three cottages. On Saturday the Railway Unit began building the first cottage for the widow of a railway man who has been killed, the foundation stone being laid by Mr. Monie, who is now 89 years of age. There was a large gathering, including a representative of the Chief Commissioner for Railways (Mr. Fraser), who was unable, on account of another engagement, to be present himself.

It is interesting to note that a Belgian child refugee in France is being maintained by the Girls' Realm Guild. The child's mother was killed by the Germans, and her father is a prisoner of war. Helene is being cared for by the Vistiaire Marie Jose, a society formed in Paris to provide milk, food, and clothes for the babies and children of refugees from the districts in the vicinity of the firing line, but the money for her maintenance, £16 a year, is supplied from Sydney by the Girls' Realm Guild, and she is clothed by the French-Australian League.

Mrs. Jane Cocking, of Camberwell, died on February 19 in her 102nd year. She was a remarkable woman in many ways, both physically and mentally. She did not use spectacles, and until three years ago she could see to thread a needle. Mrs. Cocking was born in Kent on December 13, 1816, and was married in 1844. She came out to Adelaide with her husband (an architect) in 1848. The late Mr. Cocking subsequently joined the Public Works Department in Victoria. Mrs. Cocking was the daughter of Captain John Grandsen, a British naval officer. Among the treasures which she valued was a document from the British Admiralty containing the names of ships which her father had commanded. She was very entertaining, and her varied experiences provided her with a fund of anecdote which she used to relate with surprising accuracy and detail. As a girl of 17 she had the distinction of being presented to Queen Victoria.

The death is reported of Mrs. Rebecca Kennedy, widow of the late Mr. T. Kennedy. Her husband was one of the Kennedy family of Scotch vocalists who toured Australia nearly 30 years ago. Mrs. Kennedy was well-known as an energetic worker for patriotic and charitable objects. She made a specialty of dressing dolls artistically and disposing of them by art union, by which means she was instrumental in raising large sums of money for charity.

With the object of making a pleasure tour Miss Daisy Hamilton, of Mildura, left Australia in March, 1916, with a girl friend. After visiting the United States and Canada, she joined the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in England. Members of this corps are under military discipline, and receive military pay. In France they replace men who are employed behind the lines and enable them to take their places in the trenches. After having trained for three weeks in London, Miss Hamilton left for France, wearing the regulation uniform, and carrying the usual kit of the soldier, minus fighting implements.

The shadow of sorrow fell as a personal loss on a circle of Mosman women who counted Mrs. C. B. Ward as friend, when, last week, the news of her death became known. Her sweet womanliness and loving, gentle personality, endeared Mrs. Ward to all who knew her, and heartfelt sympathy goes out to her husband and her large family of young children, which includes an infant daughter a fortnight old. The youngest daughter of the Rev. H. Robjohns, M.A., Mrs. Ward was first, and before all, a home-maker and a loving mother. But her interest in patriotic work was constant and unfailingly helpful. Some time ago, at her home, Cheverell, Mrs. Ward successfully organised a fete for the Red Cross, and to her delight raised the amount which she had set out to obtain—£100—by her personal work and effort.

HOW TO WASH MOTOR VEILS.

A very thin motor veil should be folded as smoothly as possible until it is about the size of a folded silk handkerchief, and then loosely stitched with silk to keep it in place. Prepare a warm soapy lather, and squeeze the veil in it until it is quite clean. Let the soapy lather go well through it, as it will take longer to get clean when it is folded up. If it were washed in single pieces it would spoil the veiling. When clean rinse in two lots of warm rinsing water, and lastly in cold water containing one teaspoonful of methylated spirit to a quart of cold water. Squeeze in a towel till almost dry, but be very careful to have it flat and not to get it twisted. Have a soft pad for ironing over; take out the stitches carefully, shake the veil, and pull it into shape very gently, and then iron, with a thin muslin cloth over it, until dry. Your veil will look almost as good as new. Castile soap is one of the very best to wash any delicate fabric or colour with.

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Sir William Cullen, C.J., Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

NEW TRIAL MOTION.

Wenham v Municipality of Lane Cove.

In this case, Walter Wenham appealed against a verdict given against him by a jury in a suit in which he claimed £1000 from the Municipality of Lane Cove for alleged negligence, whereby he fell and broke one of his legs.

The Court unanimously held that the motion for a new trial must be dismissed, with costs. Mr. H. G. Edwards, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the appellant; and Mr. A. G. Ralston, K.C., and Mr. Bryan Fuller, instructed by Messrs. Boyce and Magney, for the respondent municipality.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

DISTRICT COURT APPEAL.

Wilson v Carter.

Mr. G. E. Flannery, instructed by Messrs. Logan and Carter, of West Maitland (Sydney agents, Messrs. Sly and Russell), moved for a new trial in a suit tried before Judge Hamilton, at Taree, in which Herbert Albert Wilson (the present appellant) claimed damages from Thomas Newton Carter for alleged breach by the latter of an implied covenant for quiet enjoyment of certain lands by the plaintiff. His Honor found on the facts that there was no breach by the defendant, and he gave him a verdict.

The plaintiff now appealed against this decision, mainly on the following grounds:—That the verdict was against evidence; that the Judge was in error in finding as a fact that no damage was sustained by plaintiff which arose from any act of the defendant, or of two others; that, on the evidence, plaintiff was entitled to a verdict; that the alleged leave and license did not affect an exoneration or discharge; that the alleged license was revoked. Mr. F. S. Boyce, instructed by Mr. L. O. Martin, of Taree (Sydney agents Messrs. Boyce and Magney), appeared for the respondent.

The appeal stands part heard.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

HOWELL-PRICE ESTATE.

Mr. R. K. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Dodds and Richardson, made an application under section 134 of the Bankruptcy Act, on behalf of Mr. W. H. Palmer, official assignee, of the estate of David Clayton Winchcombe Howell-Price, who was convicted at Darlinghurst for the embezzlement of moneys belonging to the Commonwealth Defence Department, and whose estate was sequestrated by Mr. Justice Pring, under the Crimes Act. Counsel said that claim was laid by the official assignee to certain properties at Neutral Bay, Cremorne, and Waverley, and to certain shares in the Victoria Park Racing Club, held in the name of Adelaide Olive Ivy Howell-Price, wife of the debtor, it being claimed that the properties and shares had been either bought by the bankrupt in his wife's name, and paid for with his money, or bought by him and transferred to her. The parties had come to an arrangement, part of which was that the properties should be sold by auction, and from the proceeds Mr. Palmer should take the amount that had been expended in their purchase with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. Mr. Palmer, instead of taking over the properties, was to have a charge over them for the amount indicated. The agreement also provided that Mrs. Howell-Price should retain the shares in the Victoria Park Racing Club. The court was asked to sanction the compromise proposed, the official assignee being of the opinion that it was fair and reasonable.

His Honor, before consenting, asked for an affidavit from Mr. Palmer to the effect that he was of the opinion that the compromise proposed was fair and reasonable. The matter would be allowed to stand over till the following day to permit of the filing of such affidavit. Mr. H. D. Braund, of Messrs. Braund and Watt, appeared for the respondent.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

CLAIM BY ABSENT SOLDIER'S WIFE.

His Honor concluded the hearing of the action brought by Madeline Winifred Healey, wife of Arthur Healey, of 139 Edgecliff-road, Woollahra, against Pearce Pilcher, bookmaker, of Allison-road, Kensington, for the recovery of £28 10s, alleged to be the balance due to plaintiff by the defendant in the terms of a guarantee given to her husband, who had been defendant's clerk, to pay her £1 per week while plaintiff's husband was on active service. The defence set out that the money given had been paid only as a voluntary and patriotic gift, which defendant granted so long as his means allowed him to do so, and that there was no binding legal agreement made for the payment of any money. His Honor said he would not express an opinion on the merits of the case. The balance of the testimony given had been in favour of the defendant. If any agreement had been made it must have been made with the husband of the plaintiff, and therefore he would nonsuit her so that she might have an opportunity of bringing the case on again when her husband returned from the front. Mr. Bignold, instructed by Mr. R. A. Monro King, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. Maddocks Cohen, for the defendant.

LAND APPEAL COURT.

(Before Messrs. H. A. G. Currie, President, W. Houston, C.M.G., and C. E. Rennie.)

T. P. Fagan appealed against the recommendation of the local land board for the refusal of his application to have an area of about 410 acres within the travelling stock reserve, No. 46, in the parish of Carrabear, revoked and added to his conditional lease, No. 20,978, Coonamble. Mr. G. R. W. M'Donald appeared for the applicant; Mr. Pike (instructed by Mr. Korff) for the Coonamble Pastures Protection Board; and Mr. Hanbury Davies for the Crown. The Court reserved judgment.

The Minister for Lands submitted a reference for the determination of the capital value of Patrick Joseph Canty's homestead farm, No. 1915, Wyalong. Mr. G. H. Pike appeared for the Minister, and Mr. Fitzhardinge for the respondent. The Court ordered the case to stand over to a date to be fixed upon.

The Minister for Lands appealed for a return to the local land board for rehearing in respect of the annual rental of Robert William Joshua Lamph's Crown lease, No. 1912-8, Nyngan. Mr. Hanbury Davies appeared for the Minister for Lands. There was no appearance of the respondent. The Court sustained the appeal, and remitted the case to the local land board for rehearing.

W. T. Milgate appealed against the recommendation of the local land board for the refusal of his application for the conversion of a special lease, No. 1910-2, Orange, into an original conditional purchase, No. 1917-10, Orange. Mr. Collins (instructed by Mr. Shelcroft) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Hanbury Davies for the Crown. The case was remitted to the local land board for the hearing of further evidence, the evidence properly admitted to be evidence at the rehearing. The deposit was ordered to be refunded.

Mr. Baddeley added that the conference would be held at the Chief Secretary's chambers on Thursday morning next. There would be present twelve representatives from each side from the various coalmining districts in New South Wales.

MUSICIANS' CONFERENCE.

A conference of delegates from the various States will be held in Sydney by the Musicians' Union of Australia on Tuesday next. The question of the constitution of the new union to embrace all employees in the theatrical and musical world will be considered, and a number of disputes with various employers will also be dealt with. Male and female employees under 15 years of age will receive 10/ per week. Males at 15 years will receive 13/, and females 11/6. There is a sliding scale of wages for employees up to the age of 23 years. Males of 23 years and over will be entitled to 63/6 per week, and females 40/.

AUSTRALASIAN ENGINEERS.

Mr. O. Bryant, secretary to the Australasian Society of Engineers, has just returned to Sydney from a visit to Newcastle. Mr. Bryant said yesterday that while in Newcastle he and Mr. M'Lachlan, of the Victorian branch, had interviewed Mr. Cutler, manager of Walsh Island, in connection with a number of matters relative to shipbuilding, with satisfactory results to the society. Mr. Bryant said that Walsh Island had great possibilities as a shipbuilding centre, and it stood alone in that respect. While in Newcastle he had opened up a registry for the purpose of recording the names of engineers who were prepared to start in the shipbuilding industry. A splendid response was met with, and many of those who signified their intention of starting in the industry were members of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, who had shown so much opposition to the scheme. Mr. Bryant also said that he had interviewed the management of the Broken Hill Company's steel works at Newcastle, and an agreement had been arrived at whereby the interests of the members of the Australasian Society of Engineers would be safeguarded in connection with any matter affecting the engineering trade.

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL.

Mr. R. S. Wickham, hon. treasurer of the Women's Hospital, Crown-street, reports that Reach's, Ltd., have forwarded a cheque for £100 towards the Nurses' Home Building Fund, thus making the total amount received to date £3243 2s 4d. At a meeting of the board of directors held on 25th instant the president and members expressed their appreciation of the generous assistance which has already been afforded by the public. The hon. architect (Mr. D. Esplin) was also present, and submitted plans of the new nurses' home, which is estimated to cost £9000, in addition to the necessity for providing modern laundry equipment. As there is a heavy mortgage on the site of the nurses' home the secretary states that the board is appealing for further donations to enable the necessary work to be carried out, and all amounts forwarded to the hospital, Crown-street, will be gratefully received and promptly acknowledged.

UNION SECRETARY CHARGED.

Before Mr. Clarke, S.M., at the Central Police Court yesterday, Thomas Shaw, 46, secretary of the Hotels, Restaurants, Clubs, and Caterers Employees' Union, was charged with having between August, 1917, and February, 1918 embezzled the sum of about £120, the property of the union.

Accused was defended by Mr. M'Mahon. Reserving his defence he was committed for trial. Bail was granted.

PARIS HOUSE PLATE.

Giving evidence at the Central Police Court yesterday, Gaston Lievain, proprietor of Paris House restaurant, said he estimated that £200 worth of electroplated ware and other articles was stolen every year. His losses, he added, had been particularly heavy during the past twelve months. This information was elicited by Police Prosecutor Inspector Mitchell during the hearing of the charge against Minnie Scott, who was proceeded against for stealing between January 1 and February 21 a milk jug, a silver dish, spoons, and other articles, of the value of £2 15s 9d, which Mr. Lievain identified as his property. Commenting on the Paris House annual losses, Mr. Penny, who defended the accused, said it was reasonable to suppose that many of the articles were carried off from Paris House as souvenirs.

Accused said that before she went to a room in William-street, where the articles, with the Paris House brand on them were found in her trunk, she had carried on residential chambers in Phillip-street, near Paris House. The things might have been brought to her place in Phillip-street by occupiers of rooms ordered meals from Paris House. When she left Phillip-street she had very little time to do her packing, and she was helped by a lady friend. She did not know who put the articles into her trunk.

Mr. Macfarlane, S.M., on accused asking to be dealt with summarily, convicted her and imposed a fine of £20, in default four months' imprisonment with hard labour.

THE BOROUGH TREASURER.

CHAPTER XIX.—Continued.

"You'll be wondering what I've got to tell, love," said Mrs. Hamthwaite, turning to Avice. "And no doubt you want to know why I haven't sent for you before now. But you see, since that affair happened down your way, I been away. Aye, I been to see my daughter—as lives up the coast. And I didn't come home till to-day. And I'm no hand at writing letters. However, here we are, and better late than never, and no doubt this lawyer-gentleman'll be glad to hear what I can tell him and you."

"Very glad, indeed!" responded Brereton. "What is it?"

The old woman turned to a box which stood in a recess in the ingle-nook at her elbow and took from it a folded newspaper.

"Me and my daughter and her husband read this here account o' the case against Harborough as it was put before the magistrates," she said. "We studied it. Now you want to know where Harborough was on the night that old fellow was done away with. That's it, master, what?"

"That is it," answered Brereton, pressing his arm against Avice, who sat close at his side. "Yes, indeed. And you——"

"I can tell you where Harborough was between 9 o'clock and 10 o'clock that night," replied Mrs. Hamthwaite, with a smile that was not devoid of cunning. "I know, if nobody else knows!"

"Where, then?" demanded Brereton.

The old woman leaned forward across the hearth.

"Up here on the moor!" she whispered. "Not five minutes' walk from here. At a bit of a place—Miss there'll know it—called Good Folks' Lift. A little rise i' the ground where the fairies used to dance, you know, master."

"You saw him?" asked Brereton.

"I saw him," chuckled Mrs. Hamthwaite. "And if I don't know him, why, then, his own daughter doesn't!"

"You'd better tell us all about it," said Brereton.

Mrs. Hamthwaite gave him a sharp look.

"I've given evidence to law folks before today," she said. "You'll want to know what I could tell before a judge, like?"

"Of course," replied Brereton.

"Well then——" she continued. "You see, master, since my old man died I've lived all alone up here. I've a bit to live on—not over much, but enough. All the same if I can save a bit by getting a hare or a rabbit, or a bird or two now and then, off the moor—well, I do. We all of us does that, as lives on the moor. Some folks calls it poaching, but we call it taking our own. Now then, on that night we're talking about, I went along to Good Folks' Lift to look at some snares I'd set early that day. There's a good deal of bush and scrub about that place. I was amongst the bushes when I heard steps, and I looked out and saw a tall man in grey clothes coming close by. How did I know he were in grey clothes? Why, 'cause he stopped close by me to light his pipe! But he'd his back to me, so I didn't see his full face, only a side of it. He were a man with a thin, greyish beard. Well, he walks past there, not far—and then I heard other steps. Then I heard your father's voice, miss—and I see the two of 'em meet. They stood whispering together for a minute or so—then they came back past me, and they went off across the moor towards Hexendale. And soon they were out of sight, and when I'd finished what I was after I came my ways home. That's all, master; but if yon old man was killed down in Highmarket Shawl Wood between nine and ten o'clock that night, then Jack Harborough didn't kill him, for Jack was up here at soon after nine, and him and the tall man went away in the opposite direction."

"You're sure about the time?" asked Brereton anxiously.

"Certain master. It was ten minutes to nine when I went out—nearly ten when I come back. My clock's always right—I set it by the almanack and the sunrise and sunset every day—and you can't do better," asserted Mrs. Hamthwaite.

"You're equally sure about the second man being Harborough?" insisted Brereton. "You couldn't be mistaken?"

"Mistaken? No!—master, I know Harborough's voice, and his figure, aye, and his step as well as I know my own fireside," declared Mrs. Hamthwaite. "Of course I know it were Harborough—no doubt on't!"

"How are you sure that this was the evening of the murder?" asked Brereton. "Can you prove that it was?"

"Easy!" said Mrs. Hamthwaite. "The very next morning I went away to see my daughter up the coast. I heard of the old man's murder at High Gill Junction. But I didn't hear then that Harborough was suspected—didn't hear that till later on, when we read it in the newspapers."

"And the other man—the tall man in grey clothes, who has a slightly grey beard—you didn't know him."

Mrs. Hamthwaite made a face which seemed to suggest uncertainty.

"Well, I'll tell you," she answered. "I believe him to be a man that I have seen about this here neighbourhood two or three times during this last 18 months or so. If you really want to know, I'm a good deal about them moors o' nights: old as I am, I'm very active, and I go about a goodish bit—why not? And I have seen a man about now and then—months between, as a rule—that I couldn't account for—and I believe it's this fellow that was with Harborough."

"And you say they went away in the direction of Hexendale?" said Brereton. "Where is Hexendale?"

The old woman pointed westward.

"Inland," she answered. "Over yonder. Miss there knows Hexendale well enough."

"Hexendale is a valley—with a village of the same name in it—that lies about five miles away on the other side of the moors," said Avice. "There's another line of railway there—this man Mrs. Hamthwaite speaks of could come and go by that."

"Well," remarked Brereton presently, "we're very much obliged to you, ma'am, and I'm sure you won't have any objection to telling all this again at the proper time and place, eh?"

"Eh, bless you, no!" answered Mrs. Hamthwaite. "I'll tell it wherever you like, master—before Lawyer Tallington, or the magistrates, or the crowner, or anybody! But I'll tell you what, if you'll take a bit of advice from an old woman—you're a sharp-looking young man, and I'll tell you what I should do if I were in your place—now then!"

"Well, what?" asked Brereton good-humouredly.

Mrs. Hamthwaite clapped him on the shoulder as she opened the door for her visitors.

"Find that tall man in the grey clothes!" she said. "Get hold of him! He's the chap you want!"

Brereton went silently away, meditating on the old woman's last words.

"But where are we to find him?" he suddenly exclaimed. "Who is he?"

"I don't think that puzzles me," remarked Avice. "He's the man who sent the nine hundred pounds."

Brereton smote his stick on the heather at their feet.

"By George—I never thought of that," he exclaimed. "I shouldn't wonder—I shouldn't wonder at all. Hooray, we're getting nearer and nearer to something."

But he knew that still another step was at hand—an unpleasant, painful step—when, on getting back to Bent's, an hour later, Bent told him that Lettie had been cajoled into fixing the day of the wedding, and that the ceremony was to take place with the utmost privacy that day week.

CHAPTER XX.

AT BAY.

It was only by an immense effort of will that Brereton prevented an exclamation and a start of surprise. But of late he had been perpetually on the look-out for all sorts of unforeseen happenings, and he managed to do no more than show a little natural astonishment.

"What, so soon!" he said. "Dear me, old chap!—I didn't think of its being this side of Christmas."

"Cotherstone's set on it," answered Bent. "He seems to be turning into a regular hypochondriac. I hope nothing is really seriously wrong with him. But anyhow—this day week. And you'll play your part of best man, of course."

"Oh, of course!" agreed Brereton. "And then—are you going away?"

"Yes, but not for as long as we'd meant," said Bent. "We'll run down to the Riviera for a few weeks—I've made all my arrangements to-day. Well, any fresh news about this last bad business? This Stoner affair, of course, has upset Cotherstone dreadfully. When is all this mystery coming to an end, Brereton? There's one thing dead certain—Harborough isn't guilty in this case. That is, if Stoner really was killed by the blow they talk of."

But Brereton refused to discuss matters that night. He pleaded fatigue; he had been at it all day long, he said, and his brain was confused and tired and needed rest. And presently he went off to his room—and when he got there he let out a groan of dismay. For one thing was imperative—Bent's marriage must not take place while there was the least chance of a terrible charge being suddenly let loose on Cotherstone.

ON THE LAND.

GRENFELL DISPLAY.

These exhibits will not achieve their purpose if better railway management is not forthcoming. In regard to Grenfell we are informed that a truck labelled "Urgent," was despatched from Grenfell on Wednesday morning last laden with choice specimens of the produce of the district collected by the residents. The truck should have arrived on Friday morning last, but it disappeared on the journey, and although exhaustive inquiries were made yesterday no trace of the missing truck could be found for two days. Finally it arrived in Sydney after being nearly a week on the trip.

The Primary Industries Development League is making its first effort to direct attention to the primary products of country districts, this week, with a display from Grenfell. Preparations are nearing completion for a special display, on an elaborate scale, in the window of Challis House, Martin-place, of a Grenfell district exhibit, which promises to be most effective. It will be ready for public exhibition on Thursday, when addresses will be given mainly by residents of the Grenfell district, in front of Challis House, in advocacy of the development of primary production. In connection with this display the league has arranged also to bring rural pursuits and interests prominently under the notice of city school children. For that purpose a large "table-top" waggon of the type familiar to those who live in the wheat and wool country, decorated and loaded with samples of wool, wheat, grasses, and other products, and drawn by a fine team, lent by Tooth and Co., Ltd., will leave the top of William-street at 11 o'clock this morning and will visit the William-street (Darlinghurst), Albion-street (Paddington), and Woollahra Public schools. At each school the waggon will halt for 15 minutes, and addresses will be made to the children.

The waggon will be driven by Miss Kitty Yeomans, of Grenfell. It will make a special tour through the city on Thursday, and will be on view in front of Challis House between 12 and 1 o'clock. On Thursday also the Public schools at Cleveland-street, Bourke-street, Glebe, Forest Lodge, Camperdown, and Annandale, and on Friday, at Redfern, Crown-street, Erskineville, Newtown, and Enmore will be visited. Arrangements are being made for the exhibit to visit the Roman Catholic schools also. Even at this early stage it is significant of the value of this movement that Mr. George Cousins, of Grenfell, who, in conjunction with the secretary of the league, Mr. L. A. Saunders, is supervising the arrangements for the display, has had quite a number of inquiries concerning the capabilities of the district, from interstate and American land-seekers. There is every indication that this initial effort to emphasise the value and importance of country products in the public mind, as a direct means towards encouraging rural land settlement, is to be successful.

FRUIT INDUSTRY.

Mr. E. P. Crowther, organising secretary of the Fruitgrowers' Association of New South Wales, points out that in our report of his address at Bathurst, he was reported as saying "that 3000 tons of Victorian fruit came to Sydney every week," whereas he said "last season Victorian fruit was coming into Sydney during the height of the season at the rate of 300 tons a week."

A well-attended meeting of Pennant Hills fruitgrowers was held on Saturday afternoon at Pogson's Hall. Mr. W. Thompson, M.L.A., was in the chair. After an address from Mr. E. P. Crowther the growers present resolved unanimously to form themselves into a branch of the Fruitgrowers' Association of New South Wales. Mr. G. H. Hughes was elected secretary pro tem. A further meeting was arranged for Saturday, March 2, at 8 p.m.—same place—to elect officers and put the branch in working order.

A big meeting of fruitgrowers was held at the Parish Hall, Dural, on Saturday evening last, under the auspices of the Galston, Mid Dural, and Dural branches of the Fruitgrowers' Association. Mr. W. R. Hawkins, president of the Dural branch, presided. The question of the A.W.U. plaint was dealt with fully, and a resolution endorsing the action of the executive council was passed unanimously.

THE EASTER SHOW.

The secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society says that the entries have come in for the principal classes for the coming Easter Show at a phenomenal rate. There has been such a rush that the large staff has been unable to sort the forms out, so that more than an approximate estimate cannot be framed up to the present of the increases in the various sections. It is evident, however, that there will be a wonderful advance in the entries for all light horses, particularly jumpers, trotters, and others in the contests. The stud classes do not promise to be any heavier than last year. In cattle the increase promises to be remarkable, notwithstanding the fact that in consequence of the exhibitors being asked to accept the responsibility of furnishing proof of acceptance for registration in stud books with their entries, has resulted in some cattle being rejected. The system of taking entries and referring to the keepers of the stud books, and also endeavouring to have cattle passed in time for the show, proved so unsatisfactory that the council of the Royal decided that the exhibitors must accept the responsibility themselves. In the case of one or two breeds the secretaries of the Herd Book Societies have not been available, and exhibitors who have not obtained proof have been in a very difficult position. It is expected, however, that in nearly all cases the society will obtain proof of registration, and the cattle will be entered for the show. The totals for the dairy produce and farm produce are looming very large at present, and it is evident that this side of the great exhibition is going to be extremely strong, while there will be an immense show of poultry and pigeons and other birds. Entries finally close for horses to-morrow at 6 p.m., and for cattle on Saturday next at 6 p.m.

SHOW DISQUALIFICATION.

TENTERFIELD.—The case of Mr. A. Judd, of Blayney, was again considered by the Agricultural Society committee. Mr. Judd sent an apology, which was considered unsatisfactory. It was decided to disqualify Mr. Judd for three years, and communicate the decision to the Royal Society board of appeal, together with all correspondence.

PRICKLY PEAR.

TENTERFIELD.—An arsenic mine is being opened near Wallangarra, and works to manufacture prickly pear poison are to be established.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

DAPTO.

DAPTO.—The Dapto Agricultural Society was favoured with fine weather for its 61st annual exhibition on Tuesday. As in the past three years, the net profit of this year's work will again be donated to the War Chest Fund and the Red Cross Society. Additional interest was lent to the function by the presence of Private W. Jackson, V.C., D.C.M., Sergeant J. Howell, V.C., and Corporal Macnamara. There was a fine display of cattle, all the principal breeds being represented. The chief event was for group of four cows for dairying purposes, any age, breed, or cross. Mr. Winter Warden, M.L.C., was the judge. The entries comprised:—Lindsay Bros. (Unanderra), Ayrshire; Theo. Grey (Kiama) and Brown Bros. (Yallah), Jerseys; A. C. Lamond (Nowra), Holsteins; G. Duncan (Dapto) and C. Gower (Albion Park), Shorthorns; and E. R. Bigg (Dunmore), Illawarra. The judgment resulted in Lamond's Holsteins being placed first, Grey's Jerseys second, and Brown Bros.' Jerseys third. In the milk test for cow with not more than four permanent teeth at time of testing producing the greatest commercial value for 24 hours the results were:—Brown Bros.' Violet, morning's milk 21lb, testing 4, with value of butter .98lb, evening's milk 19lb, testing 4.8, butter value 1.07lb, total 2.05lb, 1; Brown Bros.' Shamrock, morning milk 15½lb, testing 5, butter value 1.065lb, evening milk 14lb, testing 5, butter value .89lb, total 1.955lb, 2; Johnston Bros., morning milk 17½lb, testing 5.6, butter value .9325lb, evening milk 12lb, testing 5, butter value .70lb, total 1.6325lb, 3. In Illawarra cattle Mr. E. R. Bigg was successful for championship honours with the bull Loyalist and the cow Nell's. Mr. Bigg was also chief winner in this section, securing first prize for cow in milk, dry cow, heifer with not more than four teeth, heifer with no teeth, bull with not more than four teeth, and was equal for a special with Mr. J. O'Gorman for bull [illegible] teeth. Other prize-winners in Illawarras were Mr. E. Gibson, Johnson Bros., J. Dawes, and C. Fenwick. In Ayrshires Lindsay Bros. secured the championship with the bull Advocate of Oakbank and cow Flower of Coolangatta. The same owners annexed prizes for the Ayrshire cow in milk, dry cow, heifers two teeth and no teeth, and bulls four and two teeth. A. C. Lamond took all the prizes in milking Shorthorns; and the champion for bull was awarded to T. Daley's Admiral Bloomfield of Berkeley Dale, and champion cow to G. Duncan's Becky. Other prize-winners in Shorthorns were G. Duncan, J. Daley, J. W. Burgess, O. Gorman, H. G. Fraser, and T. C. Blanchfield. In Jerseys Theo. Grey carried off champion honours with the bull Dinah's Lad and cow Noble Hyacinth. The chief prize-winners in other Jersey classes were Brown Bros., Theo. Grey, and R. Cochrane. There was a fine pavilion display, especially in fruit and farm produce. Maize stalks up to 16ft high, grown at Marshall Mount, were on view. The show was officially opened by Mr. Mark Morton, M.L.A., who said that during the currency of the war the society had given £350 to the patriotic funds.

YANCO.

LEETON.—The first day of the third annual show of the Yanco Agricultural Society was held in fine weather and with a good attendance. The quality of the cattle, produce, and fruit was excellent. In the milk test or registered dairymen J. E. Paterson's Trixy, 48½lb milk, 2.67lb butter, per day, was first, and Wood Bros.' Strawberry, 57½lb milk, 2.34lb butter, second. Wood Bros.' Coronation, 64lb milk, 2.22lb butter, was third. In the unregistered dairymen's test E. Blade's Jean, 37½lb milk, 1.99lb butter, was first.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS.

A large school building is in course of construction at Ultimo on a new site. The Railway Commissioners recently resumed the old school site for railway extension purposes. The new school is a building of two stories, with eight large classrooms, giving total accommodation for 400 scholars. The school has also extensive weather shed and other accommodation. The interior of the building has been divided with accordion partitions to form separate classrooms, and special care has been taken to secure proper lighting and ventilation. Owing to the nature of the ground, a large sum is being expended in formation works. Terraces are being constructed, and retaining walls built at the back and on two sides of the site. The work of erecting the building and improving the site is well advanced. The contractor is Mr. R. D. Quiggan, and the cost of the work is fixed at £9545.

At Hurstville a new boys' school is being erected at a cost of £8356. Mr. F. Dinham is the contractor. The building, a two-story one, is being erected on portion of a ten-acre site recently resumed by the Government. The land adjoins the site of the existing school. The new school provides 12 classrooms, giving accommodation for 600 pupils. A feature of this school is the system of supplementary open-air teaching spaces provided for on balconies 112 feet long and 25 feet wide. On the ground floor there are two verandahs, 40 feet by 25 feet. Special attention has been given to cross ventilation, which means wide open windows on both sides of the room.

At Rosehill a new school building of brick is being erected on the old site by the construction branch of the Public Works Department, at a cost of £2601. At present four classrooms are being built, giving total accommodation for 200 children. The open balcony and verandah system has also been introduced into this school. The classrooms are well arranged, furnished, and fitted.

At Carlton a new infants' school is being erected on a new site, and will relieve the pressure on the Kogarah and Hurstville schools. There will be accommodation for 200 children in four classrooms. The building has been designed on the lines of the Rosehill school. Mr. W. Wright is the contractor, and the price is £3178.

At Darlington a practice school in connection with the training of teachers is being erected. It will contain four classrooms, for 200 children, and will be a model building as far as facilities for teaching are concerned. The work is costing £2250, and is being carried out by day labour.

APPEALS FOR £150,000
TO ASSIST THE DEPENDENTS OF NEW SOUTH WALES SOLDIERS.

THE APPEAL CLOSES DEFINITELY ON MARCH 7.

£150,000 is asked for, and less than £28,000 has been received.

£12,000 per month is distributed in assisting, by weekly allowances and otherwise, 20,000 women and children, dependents of N.S.W. soldiers.

The £150,000 asked for will provide funds for another year's work.

If the money is not forthcoming, operations will have to be curtailed.

That would mean that thousands of women and children, left in our care by the men who have gone to fight for us, will lose the allowances and special grants from the Fund, and will suffer distress and discomfort accordingly.

"As long as Australia's aid in the war is left to fall as heavily as it has done on the shoulders of men with young families, or aged parents dependent on their earnings, so long will these have sacred claims upon us in their hour of need."—The Lieutenant-Governor, Sir William Cullen.

"Those staying at home, safe in the enjoyment of their lives and their other possessions by the sacrifice of the men who go out to defend them, will have to subscribe a lot before their moral account is settled. The £150,000 now required is about eighteen pence a head of the State population."—"Daily Telegraph," January 18, 1918.

APPEAL CLOSES ON MARCH 7th.

RUSSIA IN DISSOLUTION.

Russia continues to present to the world the spectacle of a people completely disintegrated, without a leader, without a policy, or any spirit of defence. The country which by its endurance ruined Napoleon's ambition, can now offer no resistance to a traditional enemy. The nation which by its own recovery enabled Prussia a century ago to begin the war of liberation is now helpless, while an invading army marches on its capital. The Germans advance from one point to another, appropriating masses of material, the greater part of which was contributed by the exertions of the Allies. The German Chancellor has explained the continuance of the invasion by the necessity of keeping order, by the need for compelling the Russian Government to recognise defeat, and in various other ways. It is obvious that the Germans must be anxious to prevent the spread of anarchist propaganda in their own armies, and to protect the provinces from which they hope to derive supplies of food after the next harvest. But the terms of peace offered during and after the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk demonstrate that they are now prepared to treat Russia through its existing Government as a country of no account at present, and incapable of regeneration. The Germans have no intention of applying the lessons which they themselves taught the world in 1813, when they rebelled against the slavery imposed upon them after defeat. They cannot see a nucleus of revival in the classes who have brought about the admitted achievements of modern Russia—the colonisation of newly-acquired territory, the organisation of local government, and the steady advance through Asia to the borders of British India. If they look for any substitute for the present anarchy it is for a monarchy or oligarchy in sympathy with and dependent on Germany for its existence. The cablegrams this morning suggest that the invaders contemplate the restoration of the ex-Empress or her son, and have placed her brother in command of their expedition in order to attract aristocratic sympathies. The Germans would be following a long tradition if they favoured the restoration of an autocracy as an example to their own citizens. But in the time of Bismarck the choice was between the bureaucrats and the revolutionists. To-day the appointment of a stable Government carries with it the danger of a reunion of the Russian people. The expulsion of the Czar has deprived the Russian people of the symbol of union which sustained their patriotic instincts against the oppression and exactions of officials. Efficient administration would have been a poor substitute for the religious emblem, but neither the Provisional Government nor the Bolsheviks have offered anything but disorder. The result of dissatisfaction with the old administration, followed by the failure of the new, has been the division of Russia into a number of separate areas, some of them at times connected by a form of allegiance to some central authority, others entirely independent, others again autonomous in their domestic affairs but in external affairs under the direction of Germany.

Of the independent provinces the most consistent has been Finland. From the beginning of the revolution the Finns have reasserted their claims which, secretly or openly, they have professed for many years. If the Conservative party in Sweden had not been defeated there might have been a revival of the scheme of union which the King, with a small section of activists, has always favoured. But the present Government is strictly neutral. Finland will manage its own affairs, and, having expelled the Russian Guards, will for the present carry on its own quarrels. The peace which Count Hertling announces will decide the immediate future of the northern provinces. They will become part of the Empire of Germany, possibly as an autonomous kingdom under a German prince, but certainly under the rule of the Emperor. The provinces which admit a vague form of allegiance to the Constituent Assembly will all be covered by the present peace. There may be difficulties in keeping order, there are almost sure to be sporadic revolts, but we must be prepared to hear of the Bolshevik peace being accepted by all the Governments at present claiming authority from Petrograd to Siberia. One of the political consequences of the peace has already been indicated by the British Prime Minister. Since Russia has broken the Pact of London the Allies will hold themselves free to neglect her interests at the Peace Conference, and to stand out only for those of her former demands which are considered to be in the interests of the whole alliance. A second consequence is that the Allies will have a freer hand to protect their interests than they had when Russia was an Ally. It was highly anomalous for the Japanese to occupy Vladivostock when that port belonged to a nation nominally fighting on the same side as themselves. It will be so no longer if Russia has definitely seceded. Japan will then be justified in sending troops for the sake either of keeping order or of protecting the debts which were contracted under the autocracy. The dissolution of Russia will create a new set of problems in substitution for the many which contributed to the origin of the present war. The Turkish frontier in Asia and on the Black Sea will be freed from its constant menace. The Armenians will lose the protection which after many years they had secured from the Russian governors. Northern Persia will be relieved of Russian garrisons in order that its own bandits will be free to do as they please. Poland will defy a German administration, as it has always done, but its future will now be the concern of the Western Allies without Russian influence. Some of the problems of the Peace Conference have been simplified by the absence of an autocratic Government as the economic and military tasks of the Allies have been made infinitely more difficult. The whole spectacle is a witness to the impossibility of any country understanding the circumstances of another, for every great Power has looked for the support of Russia as essential to the success of its foreign policy, and the British statesman who was credited with the deepest knowledge of foreign affairs has declared that in a great war Russian stamina would always carry her to victory.

SHIPBUILDING.

It would be unfair to push the differences between the Commonwealth and the State Governments over shipbuilding too far in our indignation at the lack of progress up to date. In one sense there has been substantial progress. Material has been accumulating, and the production of steel and iron is going on with accelerating speed. Newcastle promises directly to be a great centre of activity in this regard; and if all the cross purposes over Walsh Island are disentangled and straightened into one strong resolve New South Wales will not be long in doing her part in a fine programme of work as laid down by the expert of the Federal Government. Moreover the Labour unions seem now to be getting into line. Not a keel has yet been laid, it is true, and the ring of hammers in a dozen shipyards still sounds in the imagination alone. But it is so much to the interest of the men engaged in trades connected with shipbuilding to get to work that only the crassest stupidity could prompt further delays. By way of presenting a fair case it must be remembered, too, that neither in Great Britain nor the United States has a completed programme of shipbuilding yet been carried out, and that to-day there are disappointments and delays. Strikes are still being reported, and contracts which seemed certain of completion are being modified or thrown up altogether. It is not easy to organise a national industry like shipbuilding at a moment's notice, especially when the pressure exerted to that end is one of catastrophe and is not the result of peaceful development. Our own referendum last year, and the general strike, came at most inopportune times in this regard. They seem to have been prompted by the same demon in our despite which has favoured Germany so often in her most critical moments—like the evening haze at the battle of Jutland and the turns of evil weather which saved her armies more than once on land.

But this summary of it all is worth nothing unless we can be sure that shipbuilding is really moving to valuable result in the very near future. We are not concerned now with explanations and protests of Commonwealth and State Governments; these are worth nothing unless they point to progress. This is the real question to-day. The thing now so urgent is the building of ships. Walsh Island is to be taken over by the Commonwealth. The yards at Williamstown will soon be in full swing, so we are told. South Australia has at last agreed to come in. Tasmania is ready; and private enterprise at Maryborough, in Queensland, is only waiting for the word. Why cannot everybody concerned now abandon personal feeling or prejudice for the common good, and get to work with a will? It is war work in the best sense of the term, but it is imperative work for Australia. We may find ourselves directly without communication as far as the outside world is concerned, because the Allies more and more must concentrate upon themselves; and Japan may be in need of every vessel she can command with fresh developments in Russia. In any case freights are likely to rise. It is certain that even if Japanese steamers continue to ply to Australia we shall have to pay greatly increased rates; and before very long the cost of living will respond in every direction. Our own right hand, therefore, must supply our need. The question of shipbuilding is thus absolutely vital to the unions of Australia for other reasons than the industry involved. We must have ships to carry our produce to market and to maintain our trade as a matter of exchange. We dare not be left stranded in a war which so far has seen us an active combatant, simply because we are squabbling, or explaining, or taking sides in a controversy that helps nobody. Thus the only possible conclusion is that there must be earnest co-operation and concentration as a matter of pure self-interest. But the appeal, after all, takes a higher range with the vast majority of true Australians. We are not as selfish and unpatriotic as the argument would appear to indicate; and the words of an eloquent French priest may well be quoted to strike the higher note which will appeal to our sense of nationhood. At La Madeleine, the great church in Paris, last December, the Abbe Sertillanges preached an eloquent sermon of protest in the presence of the Cardinal, many bishops, and a number of representative men. It was France's protest against the attitude of the Vatican, but it was an appeal by a devoted son to France. He spoke of the four battlefields in this war—"the front, which is magnificent; the factory, which works without respite; the public treasury, where we must bring our savings, nay the 'necessaire' together with the 'superflu'; last, not least, our own hearts, everything depends on our hearts." And this witness is as true for Australia as for France. To keep the four battlefields well in view is as much our need as it is an imperative necessary for the great and noble nation facing Germany so gallantly upon her own soil. But while France has been showing her faith by her works we have been talking, and only partly doing. Our ships have been building on paper, but not in the yards; and our manhood still waits the awakening word to show itself ready to fight to the last ditch. Here, however, is the immediate duty ready to-day to be fulfilled, and all the evidence goes to show that shipbuilding may be begun at once if our hearts are right—"everything depends on our hearts."

INFLAMMATORY SPEECHES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Refusing to enter into a bond of £200 that he would in future refrain from making inflammatory speeches calculated to cause disaffection amongst the civilian population, Guido Baracchi, the University student who was recently arrested on the Yarra bank, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment at the City Court. Baracchi, who had been allowed seven days to sign the bond, had paid the fine and costs inflicted in the case, amounting to £110/10/.

NINE SONS AT THE FRONT.

BOMBALA, Tuesday.

Mr. William Kelly, of Dibbenluke, who was married three times, is the father of 28 children. Nine of his sons are fighting at the front. The first son enlisted immediately on the outbreak of war, and the ninth son about two years ago. So far none of the nine has been wounded or sick.

WAR LOAN.

TEACHERS AS BOND-SELLERS.

There are 7000 State school teachers in New South Wales, and all are working upon the Sixth Commonwealth War Loan.

"In every corner of the country," said the Director of Education (Mr. P. Board) yesterday, "there is a teacher. Wherever ten children can be gathered together, there a teacher will be found. All of them take an enthusiastic interest in Australia's part in the war. The Minister for Education is doing everything in his power to assist the loan, and with that end in view a circular has been addressed to the members of every school staff, urging active co-operation in making the loan a success.

"There is, as this circular points out, widespread ignorance throughout Australia, about the financial side of the war. The need for money is of almost equal importance to the need for men. I have tried to boil the position down to the following four points.—

"(1) 300,000 Australians have gone to fight.

"(2) Their cost to Australia is £7,000,000 a month.

"(3) By June next a further £40,000,000 must be raised in Australia by war loan.

"(4) If Australia fails to raise this, the cost will fall on Great Britain, which has already advanced Australia £72,000,000 for war purposes, and whose resources are becoming severely strained.

"Though great efforts have been made to lay these facts before the people, the success has been limited. The people as a whole have to be reached so that the power of their money in fives, tens, and fifties of pounds shall be more effectively felt.

"When the staff of this department fully realises the importance of the work they are invited to assist in I feel sure the result will be satisfactory. In order to encourage our officers they will be allowed 5s per £100 on each application they influence. It will be spare time work, of course, but effectively done.

"We have 3200 authorised collecting books ready for distribution. They are issued directly a teacher intimates his willingness to collect.

"I am sure every teacher who remains at home will feel that an opportunity has been placed in his way of doing something to make the war loan a success, and thus helping the great cause in which Australia is so deeply concerned."

"BILLING" AUSTRALIA.

In addition to war loan pictorial advertising being displayed in all post offices throughout Australia—there are 2250 money order offices and 500 receiving offices—the postmasters in every centre have instructions to distribute posters to every municipal and shire hall and Mechanics' Institute in the Commonwealth. Every effort is being made to let it be known to the people that the sixth war loan is before Australia. The managers of the city shops and warehouses are also being visited, and asked to display war loan advertising. It is the rarest thing for the men engaged in this work to meet with a refusal. On every hand the greatest willingness is being shown to help in any way the success of the loan.

ENTHUSIASTIC "COMMERCIAL."

A commercial traveller called at the Commonwealth Bank yesterday, and stated that he was about to set out upon a tour of the Northern Rivers of New South Wales. He had, he stated, half a dozen big sample cases, for which he wanted posters, advertising the war loan. He made a selection from the stock, and stated that he would plaster out every surface of his cases with them. "When I arrive at Grafton," he said, "I will be a war bond salesman, with dental goods as a side line."

FOUR-MINUTE SPEAKERS.

A letter from the governor of the Commonwealth Bank, is now in the post, addressed to the mayors of country towns, asking that at all public meetings, entertainments, and other functions, four-minute speeches be delivered on the war loan. The mayor of each town is asked to deliver the first four-minute speech.

"There are many aspects of the war loan to be touched upon in four-minute speeches," says Mr. Denison Miller. "Among those which will suggest themselves are the great prosperity of Australia, the duty of everyone to subscribe to the utmost that his or her means will permit, the soundness of the investment, both from the national and personal points of view, and the fact that every pound subscribed is that much backing given to the boys in the trenches."

Proprietors of theatres are also being approached to allow four-minute speeches to be delivered, at every performance. Already the directors of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., and of Fuller's Theatres, and Vaudeville, Ltd., have undertaken to make provision for speakers. Volunteers are wanted for the city and suburbs for this work. Names will be gladly received by the publicity department of the Commonwealth Bank, of all willing to give four-minute talks in the service of the nation.

LORD MAYOR'S PATRIOTIC FUND.

HOW TO STIMULATE RECRUITING.

"Various schemes to stimulate recruiting are being discussed," remarked Alderman R. W. Richards, one of the treasurers of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund yesterday. "May I suggest one way in which everyone may help to get recruits?

"There are hundreds of thousands of men in this country who, while hearing the call, hesitate, because they fear that if they enlist those near and dear to them may suffer hardship and discomfort. Many of those men would join up if given some reasonable assurance that their dependents would be adequately protected.

"The special function of the Lord Mayor's Fund is to care for the dependents of the New South Wales men in khaki. The record of our operations for three years should satisfy everyone about that. The fund supplements military allotments and pensions; makes special grants to any soldier's dependents who are in trouble of any sort; and generally keeps the economic terrors of war as far away from the soldiers' relatives as possible.

THE PACIFIC.

JAPAN WILL PRESERVE PEACE.

FRIENDSHIP FOR BRITAIN.

The Consul-General for Japan, Mr. S. Shimizu, in the course of an interesting address on "Japan and the Peace of the Pacific," delivered under the auspices of the Croydon Congregational Men's Club at the local school hall on Monday night, said:—

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance was first signed on January 30, 1902 since when it has been revised on two occasions, the first being on August 12, 1905, and the second on July 13, 1911. Prior to the establishment of this Alliance, Russia was regarded (and in some quarters feared) as an ambitious and aggressive military Power, in endeavouring to obtain the control of ice-free ports in the Pacific, and to threaten the existing interests in East India. Germany was ready and willing to assist Russia in these projects, and to go to greater lengths in order to obtain political or commercial advantages for herself.

In Great Britain it was the late lamented King Edward VII. who fully realised these conditions, and the situations they created, and who strongly urged adequate measures to be adopted for the prevention of possible trouble, in spite of the great difficulties which then beset any British authorities who would suggest a departure from the time-honoured policy of "splendid isolation." And it was these efforts on his then Britannic Majesty's part which secured for him the well-earned title of "the peacemaker." Our late Emperor, who will be known to history as Meiji Tenno, was also one of the greatest monarchs who have occupied a throne, and he was perfectly ready to grasp the extended hand of the famous British King. Thus was the foundation laid of the guarantee of the general peace of the Far East, a foundation as solid as a rock. It is interesting to discover, in the speeches of prominent British and other statesmen, the different opinions held in different quarters upon this tremendously important Alliance. On March 17, 1914, Mr. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, said in the British House of Commons: "Our obligations with Japan provide against (that is to say, render unnecessary) an increase of the European squadrons (it is presumed that he meant British) in the Far East, and there is no reason to suppose that Japan will need Britain's friendship any the less after the expiry of the Alliance in 1921."

I may add here that the bond between Britain and Japan secured the safety and maintained the repose of Australia. That speech very quickly evoked in the Commonwealth of Australia and New Zealand expressions of dissatisfaction and misgiving, and public statements were made attributing ulterior motives to Japan. Some of these expressions are interesting to recall at the present moment, in view of the circumstances which have transpired in the interim. One of those prominent public gentlemen, in alluding to the matter, expressed the hope that the good understanding with Japan might continue indefinitely, but he went on to say that "the pages of history are strewn with the wreckage of fruitless alliances." The point of this remark, as one of Charles Dickens's characters would say, lies in its application. And what necessity there was for this gentleman to indulge in such a reflection on such an occasion is beyond my comprehension.

Another one said: "I am not finding fault with the imperial authorities, but there is no reason why the Pacific should be unprotected, no reason why we should have no defence for our trade routes. . . . If war comes it will come very suddenly, even in the Pacific, where there are possible enemies of the Empire, and we cannot allow the present position to continue."

The foregoing remarks were made with reference to the necessity for Australia and New Zealand to defend themselves, and the combined foreknowledge or ability of the prominent statesmen of that time to gauge the future was clouded by fears of trouble from the north. About that time, also, one British general was reported to have made the following remarkable utterances in Auckland, N.Z.:—"The Pacific, despite its charming name, is, if anything, more stormy than some less distinguished parts of the globe, and while we would all deplore such a contingency, it was conceivable that in the future, apart from the storms of Nature, there would be greater and more terrible convulsions than in the past. That is to say, that the Pacific would be the meeting ground not of nations but of continents, and here it may be decided whether Asiatics or Europeans were going to guide the destinies of this planet."

Concerning these utterances, I can only say that they are evidences that the honourable gentlemen who gave vent to them were suffering from political nightmares, caused, as physical nightmares are, by indigestion. They had swallowed too greedily the tales which had been told them, most of which we now find were manufactured in Germany, and their disturbed imaginations and frightful apparitions were the result.

It is, as I said before, most interesting to recall such expressions at the present time, for a few months after their utterance the present war broke out. That was between European nations, but not between continents, and fate must have been in an ironical mood to cause the Japanese and British armies and navies to be fighting side by side against the German strongholds at Kiao-chao, British and Japanese fleets chasing and bombarding German raiding squadrons in the Pacific Ocean, and Japanese warships convoying Australian and New Zealand transports in the Indian Ocean. Yet I have not heard authoritatively that any of these prominent gentlemen have publicly expressed regret for their mistaken utterances.

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance has been baptised in blood. British and Japanese blood, and blood, we are told, is thicker than water. And the British and Japanese nations, together with other brave Allies, are found to be determined to stand or fall together in defending each other against the common foe.

It is surely time that the national aims of Japan, as I have tried to explain them, and her proved fidelity, were clearly understood and acknowledged, even in this quarter of the globe.

You may rest assured that, come what may, during or after the war, Japan will be found protecting the general peace of the Pacific with all her power, and indefatigably and energetically endeavouring to see that reason and justice and the common interests of mankind shall prevail there, instead of the brutal forces of militarism, with all their man-degrading and soul-destroying consequences.

One other point which I should like to touch upon, and which may perhaps be regarded with more interest in Australia than in other parts of the world, is the final disposition of the late German colonies on the littoral of the Pacific Ocean, such as Kiao-chao, German New Guinea, the Marshall and Caroline Islands, and Samoa, which were all captured by the combined forces of Japan, Australia, and New Zealand. These colonies had been acquired by Germany, ostensibly for purposes of peaceful trade and commerce, but actually, as has now been disclosed, for strategic reasons, as naval and military bases.

According to all appearances it should be centuries before Prussian militarism can be trusted by Australia or Japan to occupy any territory so close to our respective shores. It is therefore the strong desire of Japan, as well as of Australia and New Zealand, that these colonies shall not be handed back to Germany, as, if they were so handed back, the peace of the Pacific could not be regarded as secure from the operations of a threatening and dangerous element.

In conclusion, let me express my earnest hope that the terrible struggle now apparently approaching its culmination in France may result in a decisive victory for the Allied forces, so that the peace of the world may be firmly established for all time, and a perfect understanding fostered and cemented between peoples on the littoral of the Pacific Ocean, and a free development of peaceful commerce and intercourse be assured.

WALSH ISLAND.

Referring last night to the situation regarding Walsh Island, the Prime Minister said just prior to his returning to Melbourne, "I understand that this matter is to be referred again to the New South Wales Cabinet, and I am hopeful that the matter will be settled by the end of this week or early next week."

RED CROSS.

Mr. George Cann, M.L.A., will speak at the meeting of the general committee of the Red Cross Society at Primrose-buildings, 255A George-street, at 3 p.m., to-day. Mr. Cann has recently returned from the front. All interested are cordially invited.

CARD SYSTEM.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER'S EVIDENCE.

ROYAL COMMISSION.

The Commission which was determined upon in connection with the settlement of the late strike, as a channel of inquiry into the effects of the working of the job and the time card system introduced into the tramway and railway workshops, was opened yesterday in the old No. 1 Equity Court, Queen's-square, with Judge H. R. Curlewis as Commissioner. The only official representative present of any of the parties concerned, upon the opening of the inquiry, was the Solicitor for Railways (Mr. Cargill). Later Mr. Bingham announced that he appeared on behalf of the Association of Employees (mechanical branch) in the New South Wales railways. He explained that it was a new union, registered in December last. Mr. Bingham intimated in the course of evidence by the Chief Commissioner of Railways, and in reply to a question, that he had not so far seen anything that was detrimental to the men's interests.

The first witness was Jas. Fraser, Chief Commissioner of Railways, who said that when, in 1914, he was appointed Assistant-Commissioner, it appeared to him that he should make inquiries as to the possible existence of weaknesses in the railway working. All the records available were examined, and he was able to put his finger on certain weak spots. In all section of the workshops—locomotive workshops, carriage shops, and waggon shops—there was now a greater production with a fewer number of men. The indication was that the control by leading hands a year or more ago was not as effective as it was to-day; the administration had not been as good, and that the men employed had not, in every case, been doing a fair day's work.

His Honor: Either that, or they are now doing more than a fair day's work.

Witness: We do not ask them to do that. The card system, he added, was a means of getting information that was necessary. Witness detailed the circumstances which led to sanctioning the introduction of the card system, and said that he put before a deputation representing the unions figures practically identical with those before the Commission, showing where a serious falling-off had occurred in the production per individual in the workshops. Inquiries were instituted in Australia in regard to time recording. He had not desired to introduce such drastic methods as obtained in some of the American shops—methods which meant getting the absolute maximum out of the individual. It was only after careful inquiries by officers of the department and after careful consideration of the report, that directions were given to introduce the card system, which was recommended by the officers who had made the inquiries, and which was similar to the system in many private workshops. He had declined to accede to the representations of the union representatives to withdraw the card system, which he told them had been introduced in accordance with a promise in June, 1916, when he spoke of the necessity for introducing some system of the kind.

The Commissioner, in a detailed statement, pointed out the necessity for eliminating all waste, whether of material or labour, and as demonstrating the need for economy in all directions he said that from 1908 to 1914 increases in expenditure uncontrolled by the administration totalled, taking both the railways and tramways, £719,048 (increases by wages board awards, wages and salaries), and £109,793 (increases in cost of materials, purchase price). Increases due to wages boards' awards, increased rate of interest, and increases in cost of material had totalled £1,440,558, as from June 30, 1914, to June 30 last, or a grand total increase of £2,265,399, from 1908 to 1917. That the constant scrutiny of records had been of advantage to the State was demonstrated by the fact that the daily mileage per engine driver's shift increased from 18 miles in May, 1914, to 66.5 miles at June 30, 1917, the running time in relation to the total hours on duty of drivers showed an improvement of 22.1 per cent., comparing 1914 with 1917; and the tonnage of paying load per goods train mile showed an increase of 30 per cent. Other increases and savings were also cited. The lowest consumption of coal recorded was during the financial year just closed, when 5797 tons were hauled one mile per ton of coal used.

Frank B. Shenson, works manager at the Randwick tramway workshops, pointed out that under former conditions the means of ascertaining the cost of any job were far from accurate. In conjunction with Mr. Hamilton, he investigated the systems in vogue, both privately and State, in New South Wales, Victoria, and Queensland. Their recommendations generally, embodying similar practices elsewhere, were adopted.

Proceedings were adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

RARE METALS.

HIGHER PRICES DEMANDED.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, yesterday told a deputation that though the Commonwealth Government had tried probably 30 times to secure a higher price for rare metals, the British Government would not consent, and so he was "as powerless as a marionette."

The deputation, which was introduced by Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick, State Treasurer and Minister for Mines, was accompanied by Mr. E. H. Cambage, Under-Secretary for Mines. In a statement Mr. Cambage set out that for a concentrate containing 65 per cent. of oxide of tungsten the price was £2/12/6 for each per cent. weight, at the mines; for each additional per cent. of tungstic oxide the price was also £2/12/6. The price of molybdenite concentrate on the basis of 85 per cent. was £5 for each per cent. at the mines in Australia; in New York the price for wolfram and scheelite ores was about £6 a unit, on the basis of 62 per cent. of oxide and tungsten, while the price of molybdenite was £10/10/ a unit on the basis of 85 to 90 per cent. The low Australian price, it was urged, caused a rush to work any rich patch without apparent consideration for the future life of the mines. The industry was now not payable, and a great many men were out of employment as a consequence.

Answering a reference to prices prevailing in America, the Prime Minister said: "If you have molybdenite to sell in America you want to sell before the week is out."

The Prime Minister said the prices had been fixed after the most careful consideration and long negotiations with the British Government. The Commonwealth Government had endeavoured to obtain higher prices, but the British Government would not pay more. There the matter stopped abruptly. Australia produced such an appreciable quantity of the world's molybdenite that she could probably influence the world's price in the open market in normal times, so that it was not going to remain at anything near £1100. Britain had stopped purchasing for the time being, whilst America, feeling a shortage, was temporarily giving a high price. He could offer the Australian producers a post-war contract to continue for 10 years at the world's price. He made the offer on behalf of a very large English firm. The Government wanted to help the industry in every possible way, and had tried to do so by asking for a higher price, and would do whatever else could be done.

ALCOHOL AS MEDICINE.

The steady decline in the medicinal use of alcoholic stimulants was referred to by Mr. C. L. Garland, hon. treasurer of the Sydney Hospital, at the annual meeting of subscribers yesterday. In 1916, he said, the hon. medical staff prescribed the use of £110 worth, and last year they only prescribed £55 worth. Eighteen years of service on the house committee, which had brought him almost daily into touch with the work of the hospital, had convinced him that the call upon the public hospitals was very largely the result, both directly and indirectly, of the drinking habits of the community. In the interests of Australia he wished that the people could see their way clear to ask their legislators to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, at least during the war. (Hear, hear.)

Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart congratulated the hospital on the reduction. He agreed that for the healthy man alcohol was not necessary, and a healthy national would be better without it altogether. The little that he consumed—and he was frank enough to say he liked it—he would be quite willing to give up if the people would say they would have prohibition—till then he did not say that he would.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, who presided, said he went a little further than Sir Thomas—he had curtailed his allowance of whisky altogether. (Applause.)

BLUE METAL CONTRACTS.

KIAMA, Tuesday.

The Lord Mayor, Alderman J. Joynton Smith, M.L.C., accompanied by the Deputy Town Clerk, and aldermen of the City Council, visited Kiama to-day to inspect the blue metal quarries of the district, as to the quality of metal contained therein, preparatory to dealing with the council contract.

STRAIGHT TALK.

MR. HUGHES TO THE MINERS.

"I.W.W. THE CURSE OF UNIONS."

Unless you abandon strikes you have no right to ask for a tribunal. I am against victimisation. The Cabinet desires to work harmoniously with the unions; but the I.W.W. are a curse to unionism, and we are going to fight them.—Mr. W. M. Hughes.

A deputation representing the Federated Colliery employees yesterday waited on the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, and was told that the Federal Government intended introducing new industrial legislation as soon as possible in the next session. It would provide for industries of a Federal character, and would include coal-mining.

The deputation comprised Mr. J. M. Baddeley, president of the Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation and of the Northern Colliery Employees' Federation, Mr. Parsons, chairman, and Mr. Sweeney, secretary, of the Illawarra Coal Miners' Association; and Mr. F. M'Cormick, secretary of the Newcastle Coal Trimmers' Union.

Mr. Baddeley said the association wanted to know how matters stood in connection with the Federal Coal Tribunal, and whether the Federal Government would allow it to go on with its work. It was suspended owing to the late strike, but if allowed to go into operation again it could do good work, and the miners would take notice of any decision given. There were, owing to the late strike, a number of victimised men in the north, south, and west, and from the metalliferous mines of Broken Hill. "There is," continued Mr. Baddeley, "no possibility of the industry going on while this uncertainty hangs on. We have no desire to see any trouble; all we ask is that you will meet us with a view to settling this and other questions, and we think the industry can be restored to a certain amount of steadiness.

Mr. Hughes said the deputation knew perfectly well how the position as regards the Coal Tribunal had been created. When appointed, the tribunal gave the employees not only what they asked for, but very much more, and in a few days gave them what they had been for 20 years by strikes and arbitration trying to obtain. Notwithstanding this, they at the first opportunity joined in a quarrel that had nothing to do with them, and which they did not pretend concerned them. He did not think anyone, not even the employees, were surprised when Mr. Justice Edmunds declined to sit any further. "Now," Mr. Hughes continued, "you tell me you want the tribunal again, and although you do not say so in so many words, you hint at certain consequences if this tribunal is not reappointed.

Mr. Baddeley: I did not say that.

The Prime Minister: I said you did not say it, but not being a fool I think it is what you mean. That is no way to get a thing. You cannot think I will give you a board if you threaten me. But I am certain that unless you give some outward and visible evidence of your determination, and that of the industry, to abandon strikes and loyally abide by arbitration in whatever form it is given to you, through good and through evil fortune, it is no good talking about a tribunal. What would be the good of it? If you will have the tribunal and abandon strikes, all right. But so far you have not done that; you have stuck to strikes and yet you want a tribunal.

Mr. Baddeley: You must recognise that the mining industry is different from others.

Mr. Hughes: I know that every industry is different from every other industry. And I know this, that your men allow themselves to be made tools of by boys; and a lot of men, some of whom are not in the union, are allowed to dictate to the union. You have not the courage to deal with the men who are making all the trouble. I am quite sure that the great mass of the men in the Newcastle and Maitland districts and elsewhere are law-abiding citizens, and only want a fair chance to go on with their work, but you allow a relatively small number to run the show.

Mr. Baddeley: You do not see what the other side are doing. You want to tune them up.

Mr. Hughes: They are tarred with the same brush, and I have had to tune them up.

Mr. Baddeley said the employees were prepared to give the Government a fair run, but if each State was to have separate courts there would be confusion. They wanted the industry under Federal and not State purview.

Mr. Hughes said it was the intention of the Federal Government to introduce legislation which would cover industries that were federal in their nature, including coal-mining and transport. The nature of the legislation had yet to be decided. Victimisation was a State matter, but if he was provided with the names of victimised men he would have inquiries made. It was very easy to exaggerate, but so far as he knew the persons excluded from re-employment were extremists who by their conduct, example, and voice prevented the industry from working smoothly. Men who were not within that category ought to get redress; he was not in favour of victimisation. "Where," Mr. Hughes went on, "men of the I.W.W. type come in I am going to take up the same attitude as I did when I was running a union. I believe they are a curse to unionism, and I am going to fight them. I acted in that way in the big strike of 19[illegible], and I have not changed. What I said then I say now. The Cabinet is desirous of working harmoniously with the unions—its attitude towards the shipbuilding proves that—but it sets its face against the extremists."

FEDERAL SHIPS.

FIRST LAUNCHED IN AMERICA.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) stated last night that the first ship ordered in America by the Commonwealth Government was launched successfully on February 2[illegible]. He added, "I understand that two ships will also be launched next month, and thence onwards two or three each following month. Cargo for the first ship is now being set aside, and will include material for the Government's shipbuilding scheme.

ANOTHER MAIL BAG MISSING.

Another mail bag belonging to the Postmaster-General's Department has been reported as missing since Saturday last.

It appears that the bag, together with a number of others, was put in the brake van of the 7.20 train from Sydney to Rooty Hill on Saturday night last. When the guard checked his postal matter with the way bill after the train had left Sydney he discovered that one of the bags was missing. Fortunately it contained only ordinary mail matter of no great value with the exception, perhaps, of a registered letter. It is believed by postal officials, however, that there is still a possibility of the bag being found, as one of the other mail bags, which should have been despatched to Rooty Hill, was despatched by a train to Sutherland, and subsequently found on the Como railway station. Upon the mistake being discovered it was despatched to its proper destination. The postal department holds a receipt issued by the Railway Department for the delivery of the bag at the Central Railway Station, so that postal officials claim that their responsibility ceased while the bag was in the possession of the railways, and that no blame can be attached to their department.

COCKATOO ISLAND DOCK.

The Minister for the Navy (Mr. Joseph Cook), before leaving for Melbourne last night, remarked that criticism had been levelled against his department on account of the slips being unoccupied at the Cockatoo Dock. Mr. Cook replied, "It is just as well that a few other facts should be added to that bald statement. In order to accommodate standard ships, I have it, on the authority of Mr. King Salter, it would be necessary to lengthen, and widen, and strengthen with piles those slips at the cost of some thousands of pounds and months of time."

LOYAL GAS EMPLOYEES.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

In granting an application for the registration as an industrial union of the Newcastle Gas Employees Union, excepting as to employees of the Australian Gaslight Company, Judge Rolin, in the Industrial Court, at Newcastle, this afternoon, complimented the Newcastle gas employees upon their loyalty to their employers and to the Empire during the recent strike. His Honor had been informed that the members of the applicant union took no part in the recent industrial upheaval. It was pointed that the branch was quite distinct from the Sydney union.

INVADED RUSSIA

POSITION HOPELESS

GERMANS SWEEPING ON

REVAL OCCUPIED.

LONDON, Feb. 26.

Mr. Shaplen, the Petrograd correspondent of the United Press, says that Lenin, in the course of a speech at a meeting of the Executive on Sunday, said they might accept the German terms. "Our position," he added, "is hopeless. Germany's knees are on our chests, but when the world's proletariat comes to our aid we shall renew the fight."

M. Martoff, leader of the Mensheviks, vigorously opposed the proposal. He argued that Russia would become Germany's vassal.

The Mensheviks left the meeting filled with disappointment and despair.

Paris newspapers, commenting upon the Russian situation, state that Lenin and Trotsky have for ever dishonoured the revolution. Both as accomplices and dupes they have played Germany's game and placed Russia under servitude, while falsely pretending to be her liberators. Russian treason shows where peace at any price leads.

RUSSIA ACCEPTS.

An Amsterdam report states that Count Hertling (German Chancellor) announced in the Reichstag that German representatives had gone to Brest-Litovsk to meet representatives of Russia, who had accepted the German conditions. Peace must, he added, be concluded very shortly.

DICTATOR PROCLAIMED.

It has been announced in Berlin that the Russians have appointed General Brujewitch as successor to Krylenko as Generalissimo, and have also proclaimed him dictator. Brujewitch has ordered the troops to fight to the last.

According to Zurich advices German newspapers report that the Bolsheviks have ordered the ex-Generalissimo Nicholas to be court martialled on a charge of treason.

ALLIED AMBASSADORS.

The State Department in Washington was advised that the Allied diplomats had planned to leave Petrograd on February 23, but it is not known whether they left on that date.

RUSSIAN ARMY STAFF TAKEN.

(Admiralty per Wireless Press.)

A German wireless message says: One of our flying detachments which occupied Dorpat covered over 130 miles in five and a half days.

The whole staff of the Russian special army in Rovno fell into our hands. The Commander-in-Chief fled.

We have established contact with the Ukrainian troops in Jetomir.

IMPORTANT TOWNS OCCUPIED

A later German official message states: We have occupied Pernau, where the Esthonian battalion has placed itself under German command.

We have occupied Dorpat and taken 3000 prisoners. Hundreds of automobiles have fallen into our possession. We have reached Jetomir.

Another German official message states: We occupied Reval (the naval base in Esthonia) after a battle, and also Pleskau, southward of Lake Pripus.

GERMANS IN FINLAND.

Amsterdam advices report that a semi-official message from Berlin states that the Germans have entered Verkaus, on the Savolok front, in Finland, after violent fighting, and made prisoners of a thousand Russians, besides seizing many rifles.

It is reported that the Germans are transporting troops to Southern Finland with the object of bringing the Red Guards between two fires.

PEACE DISCUSSIONS.

MR. GOMPERS TO GERMAN WORKERS.

A message from Washington states that American workers unanimously approve of Mr Gompers's refusal to discuss peace with German workers. The invitation was received through a Dutch labour leader, who reported that similar invitations had been sent British and French labour leaders.

Mr. Gompers points out that the Germans would not allow any delegate to leave Germany unless he was a tool of the autocracy. America, he said, would gladly attend an Allied Labour Conference for the purpose of speeding up the war.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA.

IRELAND AND SPAIN.

The Washington correspondent of the United Press says the authorities have issued a statement, showing that a former editor of the newspaper "Gaelic American," directed an attempted shipment of German supplies to Sinn Feiners prior to Roger Casement's arrest.

The Secret Service Corps seized a letter which revealed the plot, and advised the British authorities, who were thereby able to capture the ship while it was bound for Ireland.

The United States authorities have also published a German letter, which has been circulated in the Spanish army, urging closer relationship between the Spanish and German armies, and endeavouring to prevent Spanish merchants supplying the American forces in France.

PRISONERS AND WAR WORK.

A Washington message states that a bill introduced in Congress recommends the utilisation of 300,000 inmates of gaols for the production of war supplies.

CONDITIONS IN POLAND.

Advices from Berlin received in Amsterdam state that troublous events in Poland have led to the proclamation of martial law at Czestochowa, Lodz, and Wloclawek.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS' VOTE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.

As a result of the soldiers' vote at home and oversea in connection with the recent general election, the Government majority has been increased to 60.

The parties stand: Unionists, 147; Opposition, 87.

AMERICA AND MEXICO.

The State Department in Washington has asked Mexico to investigate the killing of an American citizen and the wounding of two others by Mexicans at Tampico.

FLOODS IN JAVA.

Amsterdam advices report that there have been severe inundations in Java. Batavia is half submerged.

WESTERN FRONT.

ENEMY RAIDS FAIL.

LIVELY ARTILLERY DUELS.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

Sir Douglas Haig, reporting at noon on Monday, stated: We repulsed raiders east of Armentieres. Hostile artillery is active south-west of Cambrai and in the Messines sector.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his midnight report on Monday, stated:—As a result of an unsuccessful raid by the enemy at Broodseinde, we captured 15 prisoners, including an officer. We also killed several members of the raiding party. We repulsed raids against two of our posts on the Ypres-Comines Canal, without sustaining any casualties.

Hostile artillery is active, particularly on the Souchez River and south-east of Armentieres.

We bombed on Saturday night three aerodromes in the Lys Valley. All our machines returned.

A French communique states that lively artillery duels continue in the region of Tahure, in the Champagne, and in the sectors north and south of the Doller, in Upper Alsace.

RAID BY AMERICANS.

A Paris message says that the Americans raided German trenches. They captured 22 prisoners and a machine gun.

THE COMING BLOW

ENEMY DOUBTS AND FEARS.

Reports have reached Amsterdam that the German war press is beginning an inspired campaign in order to prepare the public for fresh sacrifices on the Western front. The army command is evidently fearful of the depressing effect which the coming operations may have on the country. Particular stress is given the argument that the enemy will bear the guilt of the terrible things which will result from his refusal to enter into peace negotiations.

The "Vossische Zeitung" says: "A most monstrous and terrible thing is awaiting the continent. Never in history will the memory of this February be effaced. We stand before the tragic alternatives of victory or decline. Our best blood must flow, bitterness and pain must enter German homes, but we are sure of victory."

AMERICA'S AID.

GENERAL FOCH'S APPEAL.

A New York message states that General Foch, in command of the French forces, says: "We will stop the German attack, but to win the war definitely we must have a great American army. America not only helps on the West front, she can be of immense service in the Orient. Germany is walking through Russia. I say America and Japan should go to meet her and fight her in Siberia."

MESOPOTAMIA.

BRITISH OPERATIONS.

A British official message from Mesopotamia states: Our troops on the Euphrates occupied Khan-abu-Rayan on Wednesday. Our patrols are within ten miles of Hit, on the Euphrates. The resistance of the enemy is slight. We have taken 30 prisoners.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

THE SOCIALIST CONFERENCE.

The Inter-Allied Socialist Conference more precisely defined, and gave greater prominence to the proposal for a League of Nations than the British memorandum. Besides the creation of a High Court to settle disputes, the conference suggests the establishment of an international legislature, in which every civilised State should participate to develop international legislation.

The conference made it clear that disannexation must precede a plebiscite. Any German annexation of Livonia, Courland, or Lithuania, would, it was emphasised, be a flagrant violation of international law.

A Paris message states that M. Albert Thomas has announced that the decisions of the London conference are being forwarded to Austria and Germany with a request that a reply be made through an international bureau. If enemy Socialists refused to agree to the conditions of the Entente Socialists it would, he said, be a clear notification that the democratic Allies must make a supreme effort for justice and their own countries.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.

An Amsterdam message states that the 'Lokal-Anzeiger'" announces that the Emperors of Germany and Austria-Hungary have held a conference at headquarters, resulting in continued harmony on political and military questions.

NEWSPAPER RAISES PRICE.

The "Daily Telegraph" (London) will cost 2d per copy from March 4 for the duration of the war.

POISON GAS.

In the House of Commons Mr. Bonar Law denied that Germany had officially suggested the giving up of poison gas. He added: "Such a suggestion may merely be a blind."

RATIONING IN ENGLAND.

Rationing day introduced novel scenes in restaurants and hotels. The majority have adopted a system of exchanging vouchers for meat coupons. Meat substitutes, especially fish, are in great demand, and vegetarian dishes have largely increased.

GENERAL CABLES.

Sir Peter M'Bride (Agent-General for Victoria) will attend the funeral of the late Lord Brassey. The Victorian Government is sending wreaths.

Mr. Kenneth Watson, of the North-Eastern Engineering Works, on the Tyne, has been appointed chief marine engineer of the Commonwealth, and leaves for Australia shortly.

The Press Bureau states that a committee has been appointed, including Lord Colwyn as chairman, Mr. Fisher, and Sir Thomas Mackenzie, to investigate the question of increasing the supply of flax in the Empire.

Lord Jellicoe's title will be Viscount Jellicoe of Scapa.

In the House of Commons Mr. Bonar Law said that the condition of part of Ireland was under the Cabinet's consideration. He was unable to make a statement regarding any measures for strengthening the executive's hands.

A New York message states that the Public Accountant, after investigation, states that Senator Humbert had £36,000 deposited in a New York bank, including £39,000 deposited on Bolo Pasha's order. Humbert invested the latter sum in British bonds. Humbert's present balance in the bank is about £74,000.

GERMAN TROOPS.

MEN UNFIT FOR SERVICE.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

Amsterdam advices report that in the German Reichstag on Saturday the Progressives, Liberals, Socialists, and the Centre party requested that the 1869 and 1870 classes be sent home, also the Landsturmers, who had served since the outbreak of the war.

A Socialist deputy denounced the calling up of cripples, adding that men had been called up for political reasons, despite their unfitness. He declared that there was much resentment on account of the officers getting good food, while the men were given putrid meat. If that system were not stopped the masses would burst the bonds of slavery.

FRENCH INDUSTRY.

RESULT OF THE WAR.

M. Albert Thomas, speaking at Cardiff, gave a remarkable account of France's industrial renaissance. Ultimately, he said, France might erect a statue to the German Emperor as the restorer of French industry. There was not a corner in the country where one could not find modern equipment and industrial activity, equalled nowhere else on the European continent except in Germany. French mountain streams were being harnessed for motor-power and the production of nitric acid from the atmosphere was proceeding. More had been accomplished in the last three years than in the previous twenty years.

M. Thomas paid a tribute to Great Britain's mighty effort. France owed much to Britain's great industrial creations.

ROUMANIA.

It is announced that the Roumanian Minister has left London for Jassy.

MECKLENBURG-STRELITZ

GERMAN GRAND DUKE COMMITS SUICIDE.

A Copenhagen report states that the body of the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz has been found in a pond on his estate, death having been caused by a gunshot wound.

Evidence confirms the theory that he committed suicide.

WRECKED LINER.

HEAVY DEATH ROLL.

A message from St. Johns (Newfoundland) states that the Red Cross liner Florizel (3081 tons), bound to Halifax, struck the rocks north of Cape Race during a blinding snowstorm.

The vessel carried 77 passengers and a crew of 69, the former including a number of officers and soldiers.

Dories and lifeboats rescued 26. After the night of the wreck numbers of bodies were washed ashore, apparently from boats which had been wrecked. Later news from the scene of the disaster states that the survivors number 40.

A heavy sea prevented the rescuers from approaching the vessel, which was quickly pounded to pieces.

CRUISER SUBMARINES.

Mr. Archibald Hurd, writing in the London "Daily Telegraph," says that we have sunk more than a few German cruiser submarines. Each represents a severe loss, owing to their size and extended period of building. They are driven on the surface by steam, giving a speed of 18 knots, and are equipped with telescopic funnels, which disappear in the hull before submersion. They are armed with 5.9 guns. It is doubtful if the higher surface speed and increased gun power compensate for the larger guns, slower submergence, and bigger target.

WAR NOTES.

EAST AND WEST.

While the German newspapers continue to carry out the wishes of the German higher command by advertising the great German offensive, which is to be delivered on the Western front, German troops are penetrating still farther into Russian territory in the East. The recent Russian acceptance of the German peace terms does not appear to have interfered in the slightest with the German military plan for the occupation of Russian provinces. The military machine continues to perform the work required of it, irrespective of Bolshevik propaganda and diplomacy. Fresh Russian towns have come under the control of Prussian militarism, and the enemy is no doubt making out to his own people that this rapid advance represents a glorious German military success. The confidence of the German people in the strength of their military forces will accordingly be firmer than ever. The announcement that Reval, the Russian naval base on the coast of Esthonia, close to the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, has been captured is undoubtedly a serious item of news, though it has been clear for some days past that the Russians were unable to do anything to stay the enemy's progress towards it. The question of the fate of Russian warships in that port at the time of the German entry into the town, naturally arises, and we have yet to learn whether the capture of Reval has resulted in an increase of naval strength for Germany. In the meantime, apart from the fearful premonitions of the German press, there is little indication that the German blow on the West is about to fall. The "Vossische Zeitung" certainly suggests that the "most monstrous and terrible thing" will make its appearance before the end of February. As there are only two more days in February we have not very long to wait if the "Vossische Zeitung" has good grounds for its fears, and is not mainly concerned in misleading the enemies of the Fatherland, as is most likely to be the case.

BRITISH MOVE ON THE EUPHRATES.

After a period of inactivity in Mesopotamia, the British have again made a move along the Euphrates, where they have pushed out the left of their front, which covers Bagdad. We have previously seen that the principal roads by which the enemy could reach Bagdad are that running down the Euphrates from the north-west, the roads and railways following the Tigris from the north, and the main caravan route from Persia leading down from the north-east. These routes represent respectively the left, centre, and right of the British front above Bagdad. The left was thrust forward at about the end of September last, when the British effected a very neat turning operation, which resulted in the capture of Ramadie, together with the greater portion of the Turkish garrison. In November the centre was pushed forward along the Bagdad railway on the western side of the Tigris, when the British captured Tekrit, but afterwards voluntarily returned to their original positions. Early in December the British accomplished some effective work in the vicinity of the Diala River and the caravan route from Persia, on their right. To-day we hear of another movement on the left along the Euphrates, where the British have occupied Kahn Abu Rayan, a village about half-way between Ramadie and Hit, which latter place has been regarded as a useful Turkish base on the Euphrates. Hit is about 20 miles beyond Kahn Abu Rayan, and the British patrols, who are said to be within ten miles of Hit, would, therefore, appear to have pushed ahead rapidly. It is possible, therefore, that we may hear of an attempt on the part of the British before very long to secure possession of Hit, which is situated close to the junction of the road which comes down along the Euphrates from Aleppo, and that which leads due east across the desert from Damascus. The operation reported this morning does not appear to have entailed very heavy fighting, and the number of prisoners taken is comparatively small. If it represents the beginning of a move on Hit, however, it may have a certain amount of bearing on the revival of activity in Palestine.

LATE WAR NEWS.

WESTERN FRONT.

ARTILLERY AND AERIAL ACTIVITY.

LONDON, Feb. 26.

Field-Marshal Haig reports:—We drove off raiders near St. Quentin and Passchendaele, and took a few prisoners.

Enemy artillery is active at Cambrai, in the Scarpe Valley, Armentieres, and Ypres.

Despite adverse weather conditions our aeroplanes carried out reconnaissances, and bombed various targets. Two of our machines are missing.

Our nightfliers dropped over two hundred bombs on aerodromes at Courtrai and on billets at St. Quentin. All our machines returned.

Sir Douglas Haig, in a later report, says: We drove off a raid on our sap southward of the Arras-Cambrai road.

BIG GUNS ON AMERICAN SECTOR.

The United States War Department announces that some American 10, 12, and 14 inch guns are now in use on the American sector in France. Several similar guns were sent to Italy.

THE ITALIAN FRONT.

BRITISH TAKE OVER NEW SECTOR.

There is some evidence that an Austrian offensive is being prepared on the Italian front. The enemy is broadening the roads, and installing many aerial cable cars for the transport of war material to the mountains.

Mr. Ward Price says the new sector the British have taken over along the Piave is separated from the enemy by the river bed, which is 2000 yards wide, with expanses of shingle and occasional patches of low scrub, in which streams flow amid a multitude of sand banks. The whole will be filled with water in spring, when the snows melt.

RUSSIAN SITUATION.

JAPAN'S PART.

British and French newspapers are discussing Japan's attitude in regard to Russia in view of the Bolsheviks' shameful capitulation.

The "Daily Chronicle" says that Japan's refusal to send troops to Europe was natural and inevitable. The Japanese are not a European nation, but now that Russian Asia looms before German ambition as one of the spoils of war the situation is different. If the Allies can come to a practical agreement Japan may take a military part in the common struggle.

Paris newspapers generally opine that the time has come for Japan to act. The German peril in the East is too real to be ignored.

The "Temps" says that Germany's new dream is a road from Berlin to Tokio, instead of from Berlin to Bagdad. Japan understands the danger to the people of Russia and Siberia. It is no longer sufficient to police Siberia. War must be waged there. Every day German influence is dragging the keys to Vladivostock westward.

The "Echo de Paris" says that only Japan can stop German progress towards the Far East. Japan is eager to intervene, and only awaits the signal to undertake the necessary occupations.

Other newspapers insist that the Allies must prevent Russia from becoming a German commercial colony. The Russians will welcome the Allies' support.

M. Efremof, who was Minister for Justice in Kerensky's Cabinet, has addressed a moving appeal to the Allies. He says the Russians lost 5,000,000 killed during the war. There had been a dearth of medicines, clothing, and every kind of industrial machinery since 1914. The distress of the Russian people was unimaginable. The brutal question is, whether Germany shall organise Russia against the Allies or the Allies organise Russia against Germany.

A Vladivostock message says there are many evidences that the Japanese intend early action in Siberia in response to a Cossack General's appeal.

It is stated a force of 1500 Germans is drilling at Irkutsk.

M. Kaoeneff has arrived in London from Petrograd.

Lenin, in an article in the "Pravda," explains that the acceptance of peace was essential to secure the continuation of the Bolshevik regime. "The refusal to sign was only possible to those intoxicated by revolutionary phrases," he says. "The army is demoralised, and refuses to fight. I have always tried to persuade members of our party to clear their minds of revolutionary cant. One of the greatest of the present evils is phrasemaking." Lenin claims that he warned Russia that the refusal of peace would result in worse peace terms. All the Bourgeoisie of Russia were jubilant at the approach of the Germans. "We were compelled to submit to a distressing peace, but this will not stop the revolutions in Germany and Europe.

GERMANY AND BELGIUM

According to an Amsterdam report, the German Chancellor, Count Hertling, in the Reichstag, said he doubted the utility of public speeches by statesmen, but the cause of peace could be furthered by private discussions between responsible representatives of the belligerents. The question of Belgium should be discussed in a friendly manner in order to arrive at an understanding. Germany had repeatedly declared she did not think of retaining Belgium, but Germany must be protected against Belgium being used as a deploying ground for enemy machinations.

GERMAN GRAND DUKE.

A Copenhagen message says: The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, who is said to have committed suicide, was one of the richest princes in Germany. He suffered from melancholia. He went out into a wood on Sunday, and as he had not returned a large body of soldiers was sent out to search. They found the body in a pond.

GERMAN SPY SYSTEM.

A Berne wireless message says: Adolf Friedmann, a German resident in Zurich, openly declares that every German in neutral countries, including Switzerland, was required by the German Government to work as a spy or propagandist. He adds: "All Germans in Switzerland have fulfilled this obligation very loyally and patriotically."

The Swiss newspapers indignantly rejoin that Friedmann's candid statement shows the formidable scope of the espionage and propagandist organisation, inasmuch as approximately 40,000 Germans are at large in Switzerland.

CONCEALING FOOD IN HUNGARY.

A Berne wireless message states that 80,000,000 kronen worth of foodstuffs which were withheld from rationing have been found concealed in various warehouses in Budapest.

THE STETTIN STRIKE.

Advices received in Berne from Stettin state that the secretary of the local Socialist league was court-martialled and sentenced to five years' imprisonment for attempted treason during the strike.

GENERAL CABLES.

The House of Commons voted £6,000,000 for the men in the home and colonial establishments, including the air force, but excluding those serving in India.

RECRUITING.

The official records show that 52 volunteers were accepted in New South Wales on Monday last.

The Martin-place meeting at 1 o'clock today will be addressed by Sergeant Cross, D.C.M., Sergeant Bohm, Sergeant Salisbury, Sergeant-major Glynn and Sapper Hunt.

Lieut. Thomson and Sapper Hunt will make an appeal to the employees of Mauri Bros. and Thomson at 1 o'clock to-day.

THE WEEK'S ENLISTMENTS.

The recruiting figures for the various States for last week and the previous week were respectively as follow:—N.S.W., 175 and 192; Victoria, 144 and 169; Queensland, 67 and 38; South Australia, 34 and 52; Western Australia, 31 and 27; Tasmania, 1 and 28. Totals, 462 and 476.

SEPARATION ALLOWANCE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, stated to-day that the increased rate of separation allowances would be payable to all members of the A.I.F. entitled to it, whether they had enlisted before the Prime Minister made his announcement or not. The new rates would come into force on a date to be fixed.

It is stated by the Defence Department today that the dependents of 50,000 soldiers were drawing separation allowances, and that the total number of dependents was 150,000. The proportion of wives to children was one to two. The total amount involved in the payment of the increased separation allowances was estimated at £500,000.

PROPERTY SALE.

ESTATE OF THE LATE MR. SAMUEL HORDERN.

Few, if any real estate auctions in this city have been more successful than one held yesterday. It was the first of a series of sales arranged in the interest of the trustees in the estate of the late Mr. Samuel Hordern. Seventeen city and suburban properties, large and small, were offered. Fourteen of these were sold under the hammer, while there is every prospect of sales being effected in the case of the remaining three properties. The sale totalled £67,200. The gathering was at the rooms of the Real Estate Association in Castlereagh-street. Mr. Henry Gorman (Hardie and Gorman) occupied the rostrum, and associated with him were Messrs. Stanton and Son and W. H. Horning and Co. The large saleroom was crowded. Many prominent city business men were present, and a good deal of interest was taken in the proceedings. The bidding throughout was brisk. In every case where a sale was effected the reserve was more than reached. In fact, it was one of the most satisfactory sales recorded for a long time, and was conclusive evidence of the stability of the real estate market of Sydney.

CITY PROPERTIES.

The first property offered was a block of eight shops numbering from 5 to 19 Park-street, city, and producing a total yearly rental of £1664. This was sold for £20,000.

Lot 2 comprised two shops in George-street, Haymarket, known as 754 and 756. These were sold for £7450, and a store at the rear of the shops, with a frontage to Parker-street, realised £1650.

There was no bid for the Exchange Corner building, with frontages to Pitt, Bridge, and Dalley streets, but private negotiations are proceeding for this block of six floors containing 45 offices, and having a rent roll of £3887 per annum.

At the corner of Elizabeth and Old Foster streets are a shop and dwelling, and another dwelling facing the side street, the whole producing a total rental of £273 per year. The land has a frontage of 62ft to Elizabeth-street, and 90 feet along Old Foster-street. This property was disposed of for £4200 to a Chinese.

Three houses, 232, 4, and 6 Elizabeth-street, erected on land having a frontage of 55ft 8 inches, by a depth of 82ft 8¼ inches to a lane at the rear, was next sold for £3450.

The Criterion Hotel, at the corner of Liverpool and Sussex streets, and shops adjoining, which the auctioneer said was one of the few hotel properties in which to his knowledge the tenant had no lease, next came under the hammer, but for this property there were no offers. However, for the two stores adjoining, with a frontage of 50ft to Sussex-street, there was a sale effected for £6200. The annual rental of the stores is £364.

Two shops in Pitt-street, a little north of Campbell-street, were sold for £7700. This land has a frontage of 40ft by a depth of 76ft. The yearly rental of the property is £624.

The freehold of a triangular block of land fronting Pyrmont Bridge-road, Union, Edward, and Pyrmont streets, on which are erected 27 shops, houses, and cottages, was sold for £3800, subject to a building lease for 50 years. Seventeen years of the term have still to run. The ground rent obtained for this land is £290 per annum.

IN THE SUBURBS.

A block of four shops at the corner of King and Church streets, Newtown, was passed in at £10,100. This is below the reserve, but several private offers have been made since the auction.

Three shops and a house at the corner of King and Alice streets, Newtown, between the Newtown Bridge and St. Peters railway station, were sold for £2275. The yearly rental of the property is about £200.

A shop on 40 feet of land facing King-street, Newtown, opposite Minahan's boot factory, and let at £91 per year, was sold for £1025, while four cottages at the rear realised £925.

At the corner of King and Egan streets, Newtown, is a shop let at £130 per year. This property was sold for £2250, after spirited bidding.

At the corner of Abercrombie, Shepherd, and Edward streets, Darlington, is a vacant block of land with a frontage to Abercrombie-street of 90ft 8 inches, by a depth of 90ft 8 inches along Shepherd-street. This was sold to a lady for £625.

Several properties at Darling Point were next dealt with. A cottage known as Trevellyn, with frontages of 100ft to Yarranabbe-road, and 101ft to New Beach-road, by an average depth of 133ft, was sold for £1700.

A block of vacant land with an old cottage on same, was sold for £2350. This is a fine block, having a frontage of 235ft to Darling Point-road, 150ft to Thornton-street, and 150ft to Yarranabbe-road, being lots 5, 6, and 7 of an estate. There was spirited bidding for this lot.

Another block of land with 75ft frontage to Darling Point-road, by a depth of 130ft along Yarranabbee-road, and also to a lane at the rear, was disposed of for £600.

The final lot was a harbour frontage allotment with 84ft 4in to Yarranabbe-road, by depths of 329ft to the water, and a lane 29 feet wide on the east side, was disposed of for £1000. The next sale of properties in this estate has been fixed for March 19.

N.S.W. CONVERSION LOAN

LONDON, Feb. 26.

The underwriters of the New South Wales loan will get 2½ per cent.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, Assistant-Treasurer, stated last night that the following cable had been received from London concerning the conversion loan:—

"The result approximately is as follows:—Amount of conversion, £8,168,652; fresh applications, £1,118,100; taken up by underwriters, £1,440,000; approximate result to the Government, £10,727,752. Final figures will follow later."

The above cable, said Mr. Fitzpatrick, had reference to the loans maturing on September 1, totalling £12,645,467, and the result of these operations showed a shortage of £1,921,715. The full amount was to be called up by June 10. This was arranged to allow of any further operations being carried out, which might be necessary to provide the balance, if the first application did not result in offers being received for the whole amount.

"Steps would necessarily have to be taken at a later date to make good the deficiency," he added, "but, taken by and large, in view of the great demands of the British Government, and because of other circumstances, which need not now be referred to, the result should be regarded as eminently satisfactory."

EARTHQUAKE IN CHINA.

10,000 DEATHS REPORTED.

New York advices from Peking state the earthquake in the Amoy district resulted in nearly 10,000 deaths.

SYDNEY HOSPITAL.

SERIOUS FINANCIAL POSITION.

In their report to the seventy-third annual meeting of the Sydney Hospital, yesterday, the board of directors brought under notice the serious state of affairs which existed in regard to the finances of the hospital. They stated that in order adequately to carry on the work of the institution, it had been obliged to increase its overdraft to no less a sum than £37,213. Of this amount £30,000 had been placed in a separate account, under a Government guarantee. "It is hoped," the report continued, "that during this year, 1918, the promises of the various Governments will be honoured, and the heavy overdraft, which entails such a severe strain on the hospital's financial resources, will be liquidated. The board fully realises the financial difficulties of the Government in these abnormal times in promptly honouring its promises, and it would impress upon the general public, amongst whom are so many well-wishers of the institution, to subscribe liberally to its funds, and thus prevent any further financial drift. The total amount subscribed by in-patients, out-patients, donation boxes, together with annual subscriptions, donations, and Hospital Saturday Fund, was only £3420, which is an expression of public benevolence not at all in keeping with the magnitude of the services rendered by the hospital, or the affluence of the great community in which it is situated. The board contemplate, and are preparing for, a special appeal for funds, from a generous and sympathetic public throughout the State, to enable them to carry on, and among other things, to enable the hospital to provide such accommodation for the nursing staff as will ensure their health, comfort, and happiness, without which it is unreasonable to expect full contentment and efficiency."

The meeting, which was largely attended, was presided over by the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, who was attended by Captain Paine as aide-de-camp.

Mr. John Stinson, vice-president, in welcoming the Governor, apologised for the absence through illness of the president, Mr. A. E. Jaques. Mr. Stinson extended to his Excellency and Lady Davidson a cordial welcome to the State, and trusted that peace would be restored to the world before they had been resident here a year.

His Excellency Sir Walter Davidson, in replying, said that he had read up the history of the hospital, and had become well informed of the earlier stages of its history, and the tribulations inevitable to the voluntary carrying out of such an institution. There were no institutions such as their voluntary hospitals outside the English-speaking races, and it was a fact that should be held firmly to the hearts of the people that their voluntary hospitals had enormous advantages over those perhaps more scientifically fitted hospitals, for which our enemies were famous—or infamous. There were no hospitals in the world to compare with those of Vienna and Berlin for original investigation, but this state of efficiency was arrived at under conditions which would at once be rebelled against by English-speaking peoples. He trusted that in the English-speaking countries they would maintain this voluntary system even though it might cause some grievances and difficulties in monetary matters.

The hon. treasurer, Mr. C. L. Garland, in moving the adoption of the annual report and balance-sheet, referred to the financial position of the institution. They had, he said, failed to meet their obligations in 1917 by no less than £12,192. It would never do for the institution to go back year after year at that rate. Either the work of the institution would have to suffer, or the general public, and particularly the old subscribers, who so loyally supported it, would have to put their shoulders to the wheel and help more than in the past.

Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart, in seconding the motion, which was carried, congratulated the board upon securing the services of Dr. Dunlop as medical superintendent, and expressed his strong disapprobation of any proposal to remove the site of the hospital.

On the motion of Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick (Assistant Treasurer), seconded by Mr. G. Black, M.L.C., a resolution was carried thanking the Governor, the Premier and the Parliament of New South Wales, and the governors and subscribers of the institution, for their liberal support to the institution, and the hon. medical staff, for their services during the past year.

On the motion of Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, Minister for Public Health, seconded by Archdeacon D'Arcy Irvine, the following officers were elected for the current year:—Mr. A. E. Jaques president; Dr. A. J. Brady and Mr. John Stinson, vice-presidents; and Mr. C. L. Garland, hon. treasurer.

It was resolved, on the motion of Mr. W. G. Conley, seconded by Mr. F. G. Sargood, that the following directors, who retired under by-law 27, be re-elected:—Messrs. James Gregg, Chas. P. Bartholomew, James T. Tillock, and A. E. D'Arcy.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the Governor for presiding, and his Excellency and others present were afterwards entertained at afternoon tea.

SHIPBUILDING.

NEW SOUTH WALES'S PART.

CHARGE OF DELAY.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) last night replied to the remarks of the Premier (Mr. Holman) regarding the Commonwealth's shipbuilding proposals. He said:—

"Mr. Holman is apparently not acquainted with the full history of the shipbuilding proposals of the Commonwealth Government. He was absent from Australia when the matter was first brought before the State Governments. That was in May, 1917, when a conference was convened for the express purpose of consulting the State Governments, and securing their co-operation in the scheme. Mr. Holman adheres to the written correspondence, but ignores the fact that in addition to the correspondence between the State the Federal Governments in regard to this matter, there were very many interviews between Ministers and officials, of which, of course, there is no record, after the State Governments promised their co-operation, negotiations were immediately opened up with the various unions concerned to secure conditions considered essential for the success of the scheme. These negotiations took up some time, but, in anticipation of their acceptance, the Commonwealth Government decided to go ahead, and on July 25 the State Premiers were asked to make arrangements for the preparation of slips for as many vessels as they desired to build.

"The reply from the Acting Premier of New South Wales on July 31 was that slipways were actually available at Walsh Island, and an additional one could be got ready within six or seven weeks from date instructions were received; that the Government would construct directly, and not through private firms.

"The statement that between July and November nothing was done is absolutely incorrect. As a matter of fact the replies of some of the other States were not received until October 17, and during the whole intervening period the Commonwealth was pressing on with the preparations that were necessary before ships could be actually built in Australia.

"Mr. Holman is rather unfortunate in the selection of his dates. He says at the end of July his colleague became interested in a proposal of the Broken Hill Company. In a previous statement he intimated that on July 27 a definite proposal was made by the company for the commencement of shipbuilding in New South Wales, and, after careful investigation of the proposal, the terms were agreed upon. In curious contrast to this is the telegram received from the Acting Premier of New South Wales on July 31, in which the definite statement is made that ships were to be constructed by the Government directly and not through a private firm. Nor had any intimation been received from the New South Wales Government prior to last month that negotiations were proceeding with the Broken Hill Company, or that the New South Wales Government intended to depart from the original understanding that was reached in the early stages of the negotiations. Mr. Holman, too, is apparently not aware that the preparation of plans by Mr. King Salter occupied him from May 24 to November 12. Nor does he know that in July Mr. King Salter visited Queensland, and Mr. Clarke, his first assistant, visited Walsh Island; while in August Mr. King Salter visited Victoria and Tasmania; or that as a result of the inquiries made by Mr. Clarke while at Walsh Island, Mr. Cutler forwarded revised plans of the layout of the island on September 20, thus showing that active steps were being taken by the Commonwealth, of which the New South Wales Government was fully aware. And he ignores the fact that the New South Wales railway strike, which took place in August and September, precluded the possibility of the scheme being proceeded with.

"According to Mr. Holman's own statement, and as the correspondence shows, on November 19 the State Government was notified of Mr. Curchin's appointment, and to avoid delay a request was made for the preparation of slipways for a vessel of increased dimensions, and to take certain other action.

"Mr. Holman endeavours to infer from this that only one ship was to be built, but not more than one slipway would be required for one ship, and the term 'slipways' was used. Even if he had any doubt on the point, a simple inquiry would have cleared the matter up.

"Admittedly, New South Wales was asked to prepare slipways on November 19, and up to the present nothing has been done."

MATUNGA MYSTERY SOLVED

VICTIM TO RAIDER WOLF

Many Other Vessels Sunk

It is now certain that the steamer Matunga was the victim of the German raider Wolf, which for a considerable period operated in the Indian and Pacific Oceans.

Many other steamers were sunk by the Wolf, which has now returned to the Austrian port of Pola.

EXPLOITS OF THE WOLF.

LIST OF SUNKEN SHIPS.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

The Admiralty states that in reference to the German official report that the auxiliary cruiser Wolf has returned after a 15 months' cruise, it is presumed she sunk in the Indian and Pacific Oceans the following vessels, making prisoners of their crews:—Turitella, Jumna, Wordsworth, Dee, Wairuna, Winslow, Beluga, Encore, Matunga, Hitachi Maru, and the Igotz Mendi.

The Turritella, an unarmed merchantman, was captured in February, 1917, and equipped for mine-laying. She shortly afterwards encountered a British warship and the prize crew scuttled the Turritella and surrendered.

Germany is enthusiastic over the Wolf's achievement. She tried several times to return to the North Sea, but failed owing to the watchfulness of British ships. Finally she reached Pola.

CAPTURED CREWS.

FOUR HUNDRED ABOARD THE RAIDER.

According to Amsterdam advices an official account from Berlin states that the auxiliary cruiser Wolf, commanded by Captain Nerger, has returned from the Atlantic, Indian, and Pacific Oceans with 400 members of the crews of the ships she sunk, including white and coloured British military officers and soldiers.

The Wolf has also brought back several captured guns, great quantities of valuable raw materials, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, cocoa beans, and copra, worth many millions of marks.

After capture the Turritella was equipped as an auxiliary cruiser and operated in the Gulf of Aden, commanded by the first officer of the Wolf until she encountered a British warship which made prisoner the crew of twenty-seven.

[The Wordsworth was a steel screw steamer of 3509 tons, built in 1915 for the Shakespeare Shipping Co., Ltd., of England.

The Jumna was a steel screw steamer of 4152 tons, built in 1902 for the Mercantile S. S. Co., Ltd., England.

The Turritella was a British steamer of 5551 tons. She was last reported at an Atlantic port on June 18, 1917.

The Dee. There are two vessels named Dee, one a barque and the other a steamer. The former vessel, which has been reported missing for some time, was a steel barque of 1169 tons, built in 1885, and owned by Ivanoff Desvaux de Marging. She was commanded by Captain Rugg, formerly of the well-known ship Neotsfield, owned by Dangar, of Sydney. Captain Rugg was very popular in Sydney, and spent a great portion of his time here. The barque was last reported at Port Louis on December, 1916. The steamer Dee was a steel screw vessel of 1871 tons, built in 1871 for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company of England.

The Winslow was a four-masted schooner of 567 tons, owned by G. E. Bellings, of San Francisco.

The Hitachi Maru was a steel twin screw steamer of 6557 tons, built in 1906 for the N.Y.K., of Japan. She was last reported on December 19, 1916, at Natal.

The Igotz Mendi was a steel screw steamer of 4648 tons, built in 1916 for the Cia Nav. Sotay, of Spain. She sailed from Las Palmas on October 5, 1917.

The Encore was a four-masted barquentine, of 651 tons, built in 1897, and owned by the Simpson Lumber Company, of San Francisco.

The Matunga was a steel screw vessel, of 1618 tons, built in 1900 for Burns, Philp, and Co., Ltd., Sydney.

The steamer Wairuna was a steel screw vessel of 3947 tons, built in 1904, and owned by the Union S.S. Co. of New Zealand, Ltd.

The Beluga was a wooden auxiliary barque of 508 tons, built in 1882 and owned by the Pacific Steam Whaling Co., San Francisco.]

The disappearance of the schooner Encore and the barque Beluga has also been the subject of much speculation. They have both been reported missing. However, about the time they were midway on the voyage a derelict was sighted in the vicinity, and since then several derelicts have been reported, the last being on December 19.

A peculiar fact about the schooner Winslow is that she was officially reported to have been sunk by the See Adler in October last. The Winslow left Sydney in May, 1917, with a general cargo. Her master, Captain Truget, was well known in Sydney.

MYSTERIOUS MESSAGE.

FROM THE DEEP.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

When the full story of the lost steamers of the Pacific comes to be written some romance will be centred round a bottle picked up on the high seas. Just when relations and friends of those on the Matunga had reconciled themselves to the belief that there could be no hope, and even the Naval authorities took the gloomiest view, a mysterious message came from the deep. At first it was regarded as a hoax, but when dates and names came to be examined by experts it was realised that most important information had been miraculously made available. In the bottle, it is understood, was briefly set out the story that the Matunga's company had been made prisoners of war, and that survivors from other destroyed steamers were with them.

Beyond the most meagre facts all was mystery. It puzzled navigators that the bottle should have been found so far from the probable scene of any raider's activities; but the sea has strange ways, and even the doubters came to believe in the end that there was still hope for passengers and crew. What additional information the Admiralty possessed will probably be disclosed later; but about a month ago the Australian Navy Department informed those concerned that news which was considered reliable suggested that the Matunga had been captured, and that there was no reason to suppose the deaths of passengers and crew.

THE MATUNGA.

The Matunga, one of Burns, Philp, and Co.'s vessels, specially built for service in tropical waters, left Sydney on July 27 last, and Brisbane two days later, en route for Rabaul, where she was due on August 7. She was last heard of on August 5, when at about 5 p.m. she reported by wireless that she expected to arrive at Rabaul at about 2 a.m. on August 7. And from that moment the Matunga became one of the mysteries of the sea. A profound silence enveloped her movements, and with each succeeding day the anxiety as to her fate and that of her passengers and crew increased. An official inquiry threw little light on the vessel's disappearance. The vessel, a steel screw passenger steamer of 1618 tons, and built in Glasgow in 1900, was well found and equipped, and was in the best of working order when she left Sydney.

The vessel from which the wireless message was received—and it was presumed to be the Matunga in the absence of subsequent definite information—was then about 300 miles from Rabaul. Vessels searched for the Matunga, but in vain. So shrouded in mystery was the disappearance of the vessel that the Superintendent of Navigation, following upon an official inquiry, recommended that a definite finding be postponed for three months, by which time something definite might be ascertained, either by learning of the vessel's capture by enemy raiders, or by the finding of some wreckage or other trace of her. One theory was that an infernal machine was on the vessel. Of that, however, there was no evidence. It was felt that the disappearance of the vessel might have been due to a seismic disturbance, in view of the fact that Rabaul lies near the branch of the main volcanic sewer between Japan and New Zealand. Two things strengthened the feeling. One was that on August 6 the instrument at the Sydney Observatory showed the occurrence of an earthquake, probably near New Guinea; that the Matunga had been overcome by some such disturbance was the first-hand opinion also of Mr. Walter Lucas, island inspector for Burns, Philp, and Co.

Like the Matunga, the Wairuna was equipped with wireless, but she had disappeared as mysteriously and as suddenly as Burns, Philp, and Co.'s boat. Her cargo consisted of kauri gum, hemp, pelts, copra, and cocoa, and, according to the statement attributed to counsel for the Crown at the Court of Inquiry into her disappearance, "the facts showed a lamentable absence of precautions against enemy action."

Those on board the Matunga when she was reported missing included a number of military officers, who were proceeding to Rabaul.

MATUNGA'S PASSENGERS AND CREW.

The list of passengers was as follows:—

Passengers from Sydney: Colonel Strangman, Captain Laycock, Staff-sergeant Webb, Warrant Officer Kennedy, Sergeant Wayland, Corporals Jackson, Marshall, Pearce, Symes, O'Grady, Privates Burnett, Chambers, Malthouse, Messrs. McEnnally, Green, Noble. From Brisbane: Captain Cains, Captain MacIntosh, Major and Mrs. Flood.

Caress, F. Casey (cooks).

AUSTRALIAN RECRUITS.

THOUSANDS REJECTED IN ENGLAND.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was stated by the Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, to-day that for some time past he had been perplexed at the failure of many men sent from Australia to pass the standard of the military medical authorities in England for "general service." Up to December 21 last 10,333 members of the A.I.F. who had not seen active service had been returned. Of this number, which did not include the Remount Unit, specially enlisted for service in Egypt, 7957 had been discharged, 242 had been re-engaged, and 2376 had returned to duty. As the total number of soldiers returned to December 21 last was 49,754, it would be seen that one in five of the returned men had not done any fighting. Allowing for men who were enlisted for certain A.M.C. and lines of communication units, the position was very unsatisfactory from the point of view of cost alone. The position could not be allowed to continue. He had approved of Surgeon-General Fetherston, Director-General of Medical Services, going to England and France to investigate the subject, and to determine exactly the standard on which they were to accept recruits in future. Mr. Manifold, M.P., having intimated that he was visiting England, the Minister had asked him to associate himself with this inquiry. Mr. Manifold had consented to do so, in an honorary capacity. General Fetherston would also investigate and attend to other important matters affecting the medical services of the A.I.F. oversea. Mr. Manifold and General Fetherston would also make a study of the treatment and training of incapacitated men to insure that soldiers suffering from physical disabilities who were awaiting return to Australia should make full use of all facilities in England during the period prior to embarkation.

BAKERS' AWARD.

HOT CROSS BUNS IN PERIL.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

On applications by the Northumberland District Master Bakers' Association and the Newcastle and Northern District Operative Bakers' Society, which were heard by Judge Rolin in the Industrial Arbitration Court to-day, clauses of the bakers' award were varied by consent so as to provide for the payment to long-jobbers of 14/ for eight hours or part thereof. Provided that a long-jobber is notified on the day he starts work that he is required for a week or more, he shall be paid the rate for constant hands and travelling expenses. Where a jobber is put on for the convenience of a constant hand such jobber's expenses shall be paid by the employee, but when engaged in case of sickness the employer shall pay the long-jobber.

On the question as to whether bakers should be employed on the Thursday before Good Friday to make buns it was pointed out that in next Easter week, if buns are made on the Thursday, bakers will be called upon to work three double days of eleven hours each, and one single day of seven and a half hours.

Mr. C. H. Lloyd, the union secretary, said that the question of the bakers making buns for Good Friday had been a matter of contention for ten years past. The union did not want the work at any price.

His Honor said he would give further consideration to the application and let the parties know his decision next week.

SCOTTISH WOMEN'S WAR HOSPITALS.

This fund now totals £6521, the latest donations received being:—Dubbo Red Cross Society, £10/10/; Bangalow Red Cross Society, £10; Eureka branch Red Cross Society, £5. Contributions should be addressed to hon. treasurers, Messrs. J. Russell French and H. H. Massie, 59 Phillip-street, Sydney.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

WORONORA WATER SUPPLY

ARBITRATION BILL IN COMMITTEE.

The Legislative Assembly sat until close on 4 o'clock on Tuesday morning, from 4.30 the previous afternoon, mainly occupied in the consideration in committee of the new Arbitration Bill. At 2.30 a.m. the Minister for Works, Mr. Ball, moved the expediency of introducing the bill to provide for the construction of the Woronora (Sutherland) water supply as a matter of urgency. He explained that the money to do the work (estimate £140,000) was being lent to the Government by a number of persons interested in the locality to be served—the districts of Sutherland and Cronulla.

Mr. John Storey, leader of the Opposition, protested against the introduction of the bill as an urgent matter. "Why are the splendid traditions and the public safeguards of the Public Works Committee being departed from in this case?" he asked. "I have no hesitation in saying," he went on, "that we are rapidly coming to the stage when it is only necessary for somebody to have enough money, to be able to get the Government to do whatever work it wants done." The Minister proposed to suspend the only safeguards the country had had for years in regard to the construction of large public works. The Minister had referred to a number of struggling poultry farmers who were in need of water. But there could be no doubt that it was not these who were finding the money. The money was being found by people who had bought large areas of land in the district, and who wanted the scheme to enhance the speculative value of their property. When are we going to stop this private financing business? he asked.

Several other members of the Opposition desired to discuss the preliminary stages of the measure, but the closure was applied on the motion of Mr. Robson. The bill was then taken to the first reading stage, the Opposition dividing the House at every opportunity.

When the House resumed at 4.30 p.m. yesterday, private members' business occupied members until the dinner adjournment, after which the Government went on with the Woronora Water Supply and the Arbitration bills.

MINERS FROM VICTORIA.

Replying to Mr. Kearsley, the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, said it was a fact that more men were being engaged in Victoria for work in the Pelaw Main mine. This was found necessary because local miners were not allowed by the Miners' Federation to accept work in the mine. Two cases were known where men who had accepted work had been waylaid and persuaded not to go into the mine, and others had said that they wanted to go to work but had been given instructions not to resume.

Mr. Edden asked the Premier if he could not stop this engagement of outside labour, and so prevent what looked like serious trouble arising in consequence. Mr. Holman asked for notice of the question.

SALARIES OF POLICE.

Mr. Osborne, who asked about the recent increase of salary to the Inspector-General of Police, was told by the Chief Secretary, Mr. Fuller, that no embargo has been placed on increases in police salaries, as is shown by the fact that a sum of £50,000 was voted by Parliament during the last financial year to cover additional increases in salary to all ranks. Moreover, the salaries of all ranks have several times during the past 10 years been increased, while the salary of the Inspector-General has remained stationary for over 27 years.

THE STATE TRAWLERS.

The Minister for Works, answering Mr. John Storey, said that if the arrangements for leasing the Walsh Island works to the Commonwealth Government were completed on the same terms as proposed by the Broken Hill Proprietary Company the Federal Government would complete the trawlers now under construction, and be paid the actual cost, plus a small overhead charge.

REGISTRATION OF DEEDS.

The Registration of Deeds Bill was received from the Legislative Council and read the first time, the second reading being fixed for the next sitting.

TRUST LANDS.

The Use of Trust Lands for War Purposes Bill, which permits the trustees or other holders to use, for the benefit of sailors and soldiers, any land devoted to charitable and patriotic purposes, and which validates the purposes for which land is held within the ground of the Anglican Cathedral, and the object for which other land is similarly held, was read a second time, on the motion of Mr. Levy, and taken through committee without amendment. The third reading was fixed for the next sitting.

PREFERENTIAL VOTING.

Mr. Loughlin's motion affirming the desirableness of so amending the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act as to provide for preferential voting, was further discussed, the debate being again adjourned until Tuesday.

SUTHERLAND WATER SUPPLY.

Moving the second reading of the Sutherland Water Supply Bill, the Minister for Works said that as the work was one of emergency, and therefore the Government wished it authorised without reference to the Works Committee, which was not in existence just now. But it was desired to remit the bill to a special committee with a view to having a report before Parliament this session for approval, the committee having the same powers as the Public Works Committee. The cost was estimated at £140,000. A population of 5000, which was rapidly growing, would be served. It was also estimated that the revenue from rating and the sale of the water would cover everything, and make the work payable from the outset. The provision for financing the work was the same as was included in all such measures—that was that it should be paid for out of the loan fund. If the loan could be raised locally, that would be a matter for the Government's consideration.

Mr. John Storey, leader of the Opposition, said that much as he would like to support the proposition he could not do so, as the method of submitting it was extraordinary, loose, and irregular.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, Minister for Mines, moved that the bill be referred to a select committee, consisting of Messrs. Ball, Colquhoun, Osborne, Hickey, Weaver, Millard, Johnson, Brookfield, Ley, and the mover. This was carried on division by 35 votes to 29, after a hostile debate. Mr. M'Garry voted against the Government.

ARBITRATION AMENDMENT BILL.

The Arbitration Act Amendment Bill was further considered in committee. Clauses 13 to 16 inclusive were postponed.

Speaking on the clause scheduling the services in which strikes would be illegal, the Minister for Labour said he would strongly oppose any attempt to allow employees in the Governmental services to strike. The objections of the Opposition were illogical, for they were at complete variance with the party's advocacy of nationalisation. It must be a fundamental condition of employment by the State that its employees shall not strike. It was equally necessary to save State employees from being dragged into upheavals by "direct action" coteries, as it was to save those in private employment from the same danger.

Progress was reported, and leave given to resume the following day.

UNIVERSITY (SENATE) AMENDMENT BILL.

The University (Senate) Amendment Bill, providing that members of the present senate of the University of Sydney shall continue in office until a day to be proclaimed by the Governor, was carried to the completion of the second reading stage without opposition. The third reading was fixed for this afternoon. The Minister for Education explained that, owing to a large number of graduates being at the war, it was considered inadvisable to attempt to elect a new senate until they returned.

At 11.5 p.m. the House adjourned until 4.20 this afternoon.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Shortly after the Legislative Council met yesterday the third reading of the Gas (Amendment) Bill, with amendments, was carried, and the final stage of the Registration of Deeds (Amendment) Bill was reached without amendments.

After an adjournment to Government House to present an address of congratulation to his Excellency Sir Walter Davidson, the reply of his Excellency was read by the President.

Mr. Dick then moved the second reading of the Synod of Eastern Australia Property Bill. The object of the bill, Mr. Dick explained, was to place under one corporate body, including the Moderator and the clerk and treasurer of the Synod of Eastern Australia, all trusts and property held by the "Presbyterian Church of Eastern Australia," the "Free Presbyterian Church of New South Wales," and the "Free Church."

Progress was reported at the committee stage, and the House at 5.45 adjourned till to-day.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Members of the pastoral conference met in session at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, the Rev. P. J. Stephen presiding. A welcome was tendered to Rev. James Green, V.D., C.M.G., and congratulations given on the service rendered, his safe return, and honours won whilst on chaplaincy service oversea.

Rev. J. G. Wheen, general secretary for missions, presented recommendations from the Board of Missions concerning missionary appointments. It was resolved that Revs. J. C. Lawton and P. C. Hye have permission to return to circuit work, and to be transferred to Victoria; Rev. F. S. Johns to return to the Western Australian conference. The Rev. J. F. Long was granted permission to rest for one year. The Rev. P. M. Waterhouse, for Fiji, from New South Wales, and the Rev. C. Whitehead and E. G. Hall, from Queensland, were designated, the former to the Indian mission in Fiji, and the latter to the Solomon Islands. Revs. T. B. Lancaster, of Victoria, was designated to New Britain, G. H. Shepherd, a second year probationer from the same conference, was appointed to Papua, and A. D. Lelean to Fiji. The appointment of Revs. C. R. Beggerfield and I. J. Mann, of Victoria, was deferred for one year. From South Australia Rev. C. R. Dabbs was received and designated to Fiji, and Rev. J. B. Suckling, of New Zealand, was similarly appointed. There were vacancies yet to be filled in India, Papua, New Britain, Solomon Islands, and Fiji. They had money, but were short of men to open new spheres. It was also decided that all probationers designated for mission work should have permission to marry.

Reports of the oral and literary examinations of probationers were presented. It was decided that the question of status to be accorded to candidates and probationers on active military service be remitted to a committee for report.

In reply to the question what ministers now become supernumeraries, it was stated that the Revs. Benjamin Danks, Joseph Bryant, and D. A. Gilsenan applied to be made supernumeraries. The request was acceded to in each case. Rev. C. E. Williams was made a supernumerary for one year. Similar resolutions were carried respecting Revs. T. Davies, Percy A. Westbrook, and T. F. Rudd. It was also resolved that Rev. J. B. Penman return to circuit work.

The committee upon applications for admission to the Methodist ministry from members of other Churches was presented. It was resolved to receive the Rev. James Wilson from the Methodist Church of New Zealand, subject to the usual medical certificates being satisfactory. Mr. A. L. Cannon, formerly an agent of the China Inland Mission, was received and designated for appointment to the New Britain district, so supplying the vacancy left in previous appointments to that mission. Rev. B. Linden Webb, B.A., was left without pastoral charge for another year.

The Lyceum Hall was crowded last night by a rally of young people's societies of the Methodist Church. Mr. R. H. Nesbitt presided, the principal speaker of the evening being Rev. R. J. Williams, president of the State C. E. Union. Senior Chaplain James Green, C.M.G., who was accorded an ovation, briefly addressed the meeting, conveying greeting from ex-members of the young people's societies now in the A.I.F. oversea. Christian Endeavour Societies, Young Worshippers' League, Boys' Order of Knights, Girls' Guild, and the four M's were represented. A spectacular display were given by members of the Bondi Young People's Institute. A picturesque grouping of the different societies under the colours of the A.I.F. Battalions now serving in France made an interesting and effective feature in the programme.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The annual meeting the Australian Historical Society was held in the assembly room of the Education Department last night. The president, Captain Greaves, occupied the chair.

The annual report indicated a remarkable growth of the society during recent years, and an increased interest on the part of the community generally in the history of Australia. During last year 122 ladies and gentlemen had been elected members of the society. Mr. Peter Board (Director of Education) was elected an honorary member, and Mr. Kelso King and Mr. C. J. Loewenthal were elected as benefactors. The following gentlemen were elected as life members:—Mr. J. T. Walkr, Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., Mr. H. D. McIntosh, M.L.C., and Mr. E. Moore.

By arrangement with the council, the report continued, Mr. J. Lane Mullins, M.L.C., had provided for the annual donation of a gold medal in memory of his only son, the late Lieutenant Brendan Lane Mullins, "who gave his life in the cause of freedom and Australia at Arras, France." The medal was open to all candidates taking the honours paper in Australian history at the leaving certificate examination, and the first award was made to Malcolm McIntyre, of the Scots' College.

The report specially referred to the partial success of the society in its efforts to arouse general interest in the question of the establishment of an historical museum. As the outcome of a conference with other public institutions it was decided to urge the Government to establish a State Historical Museum controlled by a board of trustees, on which the society should have substantial representation, to find temporary quarters for the new institution in some Government building, and to push on with the new Public Library buildings. The old library might then serve for the Historical Museum. The State Government had asked the Agent-General in London to obtain war trophies.

The Rev. M. Scott Fletcher, master of Wesley College, University of Sydney, delivered an interesting address on "An Australian's Impressions of Oxford." He referred to Oxford's awakened historical interest, its methods of historical research, and as a maker of history.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—President, Mr. Hugh Wright; vice-presidents, Judge A. P. Backhouse, Captain W. A. B. Greaves, Mr. S. H. Smith, and Professor G. A. Wood; hon. secretary, Mr. K. R. Cramp; hon. treasurer, Mr. William Welch; hon. research secretary, Captain J. H. Watson; councillors, Messrs. C. H. Bertie, R. J. Black, M.L.C., C. T. Burfitt, W. S. Campbell, J. A. Ferguson, A. Halloran, J. A. Hogue, P. J. Marks, F. Walker.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

STORES DEPARTMENT CRITICISED.

Mr. G. Mason Allard, sitting as a Royal Commissioner, yesterday continued the inquiry into the conditions of the Public Service.

William Girling Watson, electrical engineer, of W. G. Watson and Co., Sydney, complained of the action of the Stores Supply Department in inflicting penalties for non-fulfilment of contract, and the buying against his firm in the open market, when, he alleged, tenders were broken owing to the difficulty experienced in obtaining goods from abroad. He gave instances where the department paid prices largely in excess of the firm's contracts. He also alleged that in some instances his firm had been given notice that the department was going to buy outside against them before his firm had received the actual order. In tendering for the 1917-18 contracts they put in alternative tenders. In one they inserted their own terms and conditions against their inability to get goods. As an alternative they accepted the whole of the department's terms and conditions, without any reservation, but they doubled the prices. In the former they cut the prices in order to secure the tender. The department accepted the alternative tender, and the Government was now paying 100 per cent. more for many of their supplies they could buy at the present time in the open market. This was particularly the case with solder. He read documents showing that other firms had been given information of work coming on well in advance, with the result that the opposition had ample time to communicate with America and secure latest quotations, and to be able to tender right away. His firm had not the same opportunity. They were asked for a quotation almost at the moment. He instanced the work at the Jenolan Caves House. The General Electric Company had been given the information. He admitted a representative of the latter firm had visited the Caves, and so secured certain information.

The commission adjourned until Friday, at 2.15 p.m.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

There was a light shower or two this morning, but it did not interfere with the work, which was of an interesting kind. The hurdles were only two out, and the grass was pretty fast. Lord Capulet was the first to get going, and he ran the last mile of nine furlongs in 1m 46½s. Que Sera dashed off four furlongs in 50s, and finished strongly, while his stable companion, Whitefield, beat Omaha by five lengths over a furlong more in 1m 2½s. Rivernook bit out for a mile and a quarter in 2m 22s, and Calbert ran the same distance without an effort in 2m 17s. Wedge went in his usual dashing style, and gave Kanapa eight lengths start over four furlongs in 49½s. Two Blues went strongly for nine furlongs, and Sugelo sprinted four furlongs in 55½s. King Arthur and Lucky King were kept well in hand for six furlongs in 1m 21½s. Athens spurted four furlongs in 54s, and Kilfoyle made the same time. Palm Leaf left five furlongs behind in 1m 2s, and she looked to have something in hand. Poitrine, who carries over 9st every morning, made light of four furlongs in 52½s. Pistolaire never once got his head for six furlongs in 1m 24½s; nor was Cetigne unduly exerted in 1m 18½s. Ashview beat Firebrick and Wallachia at the end of a mile and a quarter in 2m 19s. Perdo dashed off three furlongs in 38½s. Delinacre was 40½s, and Belgium Waif 39½s. Amadis went smartly for four furlongs in 49½s. Remmon had it all on for five furlongs in 1m 8s, and he ran it out well. Bronzetti and Sir Aymas were well in front of Fantasie at the end of a mile and a quarter in 2m 12s, and they ran the first seven furlongs in 1m 33½s. Five-furlong spurts were done by King of the Seas in 1m 5s by Endorus in 1m 3½s, and Bardol in 1m 4½s. Favivalo made his way over nine furlongs in 1m 58½s, and went in great style throughout. Alecooner ran two furlongs in 28s, but went four altogether. Defence and Wayland Smith were bracketed for a mile and a half in 2m 43½s, the first mile and a quarter taking 2m 17s. Yoorala showed all her old pace this morning, and ran five furlongs in the fast time of 1m 1s, and did the first three furlongs of it in 36s, and she finished strongly. Dependence was well in front of Lord Marco when six furlongs had been run in 1m 18s.

FLEMINGTON.

INTERESTING GALLOPS.

It was very dull and threatening rain, with a heavy atmosphere, yesterday morning, when the tracks were quite at their best, and a lot of galloping was done. An early start was made, and there was hardly light enough to distinguish Burnley, who ran the last six of eight furlongs in 1m 23s; while Quillion occupied 2s more for the same distance. Cape Skye (R. Lewis) beat Bon Vue (J. Killorn) and Cleio over five furlongs in 1m 5½s. Headwind went slowly on the tan, where Thrice (R. Lewis) looked to be going better than Deneb in a soundly-run gallop of a mile and a half in 2m 44½s, the first half-mile being done in 58s, and the mile in 1m 50s. Rosanna (R. Lewis) went strongly, and Stagefright, Sea Bound, and Icos were all at striding work. Lingle (S. Meekings) was about a neck in front of Red Pennant (Foley) at the conclusion of a gallop of a mile and a half on the course in 2m 47s, with the pace all on for the last mile and a quarter in 2m 16s, and Lingle again pulled up all right. Pah King (W. H. M'Lachlan) was fully extended for six furlongs on the course in 1m 17s. Desert Gold, who was being ridden by the man that attends to her, was on the track for easy work at the same time, but when Pah King jumped away some three or four lengths in advance of her she dashed away after him and soon gave him a flying go by, getting clear in front before she could be steadied, and, though pulling hard and full of running, she was only about three lengths behind him at the finish, and must have made about similar time. She is evidently none the worse for her severe race in the Futurity Stakes. Dalcross (T. Burn) was sent two miles on the tan, and, going steadily for the first half, he completed the journey in 3m 48s, doing the final mile in 1m 49½s, and there is no doubt about his stamina. Tragic Star (S. Murphy) went five furlongs on the course in 1m 7s, but he only had speed on for the last half-mile, in 50½s, and again went in a most pleasing way. Eusebius (G. Harrison) and Dunwil (H. Cairns) were going easily for five furlongs on the course in 1m 8s; and Tar (W. Smart) spurted over a furlong less in 53½s. Lilian Brankney (W. Wallace) was extended for five furlongs in 1m 8½s, and Weleria was going at her ease for half a mile in 56½s. Petracia (F. Wright) looked to be going comfortably in the early stages of seven furlongs on the course, and did the last six in 1m 21s. Bourlang, with a light boy up, was going at his ease for five furlongs on the course in 1m 7½s. Secordistrobe went along for six furlongs on the tan in 1m 25s; Mistico (R. W. Brennan) ran the last five of six furlongs in 1m 5s; Princess Winifred spurted half a mile in 53½s; and Real also dashed over a short distance. Wallace Islington (F. Foley) gave Prince Viridis (C. Barden) a good start and just overhauled him at the conclusion of a well-run gallop of a mile and a quarter on the course in 2m 15s, the last nine furlongs being done in 2m; and he got down in fine style to his work during the last stages of the journey. Kunagattis (W. Smart) also galloped the mile and a quarter on the course, and did it in 2m 17½s; Liquid Fire (S. Meekings) and Coin Rose (light boy), finishing together, ran five furlongs on the course in 1m 5½s. Ansleory went steadily on the tan; Prince Bardolph (P. Tehan) went in his best form during a gallop of a mile and a half in 2m 46s, the last once round on the sand being done in 2m 39½s, and the last five in 1m 8s, and he was not ridden out to do it. King Kora (P. Tehan) and Queen Ingoba were well matched for a mile in 1m 49½s; Colonel Chutney and Tua Cross did an even-time couple of furlongs; Eltham (W. Chalmers) and Social King (G. Baton) kept close company for a mile and a half on the course in 2m 48½s. Broken Glass (F. Wright) went over the same ground in 2m 47s, Purple Cross helping over the last nine furlongs in 2m 5s. Dumtulm went seven furlongs on the course at a shade over even-time pace; Edrington (P. Kelly) finished a neck in front of Elvidon (J. E. Riley), who had the outside running, and they beat Nightwatch (light boy) a long way over six furlongs on the course from almost a standing start in 1m 18s—a good bit of work. Escomb (light boy), who had the outside running, had the best of Lanius (J. E. Riley), who tired in a soundly run mile and a quarter on the tan in 2m 18½s, the first mile being done in 1m 57½s, and Escomb looked the better for his race at Caulfield. So did Shadowland, who was striding along on the tan; as were Con d'Or, Magpie, and King Offa; while Manderson (J. E. Riley) ran seven furlongs in 2m 34½s. Glittering Gold, The Broke, and King Nuria got over five furlongs in 1m 7s.

WYONG PARK RACING CLUB.

Wyong Park Racing Club's postponed meeting, held yesterday, brought together the largest attendance that has been seen on the course. The special trains from Sydney and Newcastle were crowded, and the fields were fairly numerous. AMUSEMENTS.

WALTER BENTLEY TESTIMONIAL.

Mr. J. M. Pringle took the chair yesterday afternoon at the Highland Society's rooms in furtherance of the movement for a testimonial to Mr. Walter Bentley, the Scottish tragedian and elocutionist. Mr. James R. Johnston (hon. organising secretary) read letters of sympathy from the Premier, Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.C., Mrs. Geo. Titheradge, Mr. S. A. Fitzgerald, Mr. Lawrence Campbell, and others, and added that 1004 circulars had been posted to friends and admirers of the actor-manager. The hon. treasurers (Messrs. Richard Teece and T. H. Kelly) reported that subscriptions were coming in rather slowly, and it was decided to urge intending subscribers not to delay sending in. The committee, which also included Messrs. James Marion, W. E. Hawkins, D. R. Rogers, Herbert Leigh, G. Marr Thompson, and Dr. Fenton, will meet again a fortnight hence.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

Mr. Jack Cannot, who has been off duty this week at Her Majesty's Theatre owing to a cold with hoarseness, is now much better, and his medical adviser informs the J. C. Williamson management that he will be able to resume his part of Lucifer in "The Bing Boys" to-night. The character was acceptably played on Monday and Tuesday by Mr. Andrews.

"CHEER OH" GIRLS.

A smart revue will be given by the Cheer Oh Girls at the Rawson Institute for Seamen this evening. An excellent programme of a bright character will be presented. The proceeds will be in aid of Mosman branch Harbour Lights Guild. The plan is at Paling's.

RAT INFESTATION.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Council last night a letter was received from Dr. Booth Clarkson, the local health officer, pointing out the serious danger that a rat infestation would be if a plague broke out in Newcastle. A strenuous campaign should be inaugurated against rats, and the sooner it was commenced the better. The council decided to take steps accordingly.

FINANCIAL.

SIXTH WAR LOAN.

OBLIGATION TO SAVE AND LEND.

If the individual is a saver the banks will assist him to subscribe to the sixth war loan, even if he has not the ready cash. Everyone in that position should approach his bank, and see what he can do. It is everyone's duty to save the utmost farthing. Read what the British National War Savings Committee says on the subject:—

Your obligation is to save all you can and to lend your savings to the State. Why? Because there is a serious scarcity of labour and material. If you spend your spare money on things which are not absolutely needed to maintain your efficiency, you enter into unnecessary competition with the State for goods and services that are essential to the winning of the war. If, instead of spending money, you save it, and invest it in Government securities, you transfer your spending power to the State. What the State spends is thus substituted for your expenditure instead of being added to it. This tends to keep down prices, and lowers the cost of the war. The more you save and the more you lend the nearer you bring victory. Unnecessary spending is a shameful thing, and treachery to our fighting men.

NORTH SHORE GAS.

The report of the North Shore Gas Company for the year ended December 31 shows that the profit for the period was £24,962, which, with £3364 brought forward, made £28,326 available. Dividends of 2½ per cent. on A and B shares for the half-year ended June 30 absorbed £13,141. The directors recommend a further dividend of 2½ per cent. for the half-year on A and B shares, absorbing £13,141, and making 5 per cent. for the year. Owing to the war part of the plant required to complete the Oyster Cove works could not be obtained in England. It was, therefore, manufactured locally. The following comparison may be made:—

	Year ended Dec. 31 1915. £	1916. £	1917. £

AERATED BREAD COMPANY.

REDUCTION OF CAPITAL.

An extraordinary meeting of the Aerated Bread Company, Limited, will be held on March 7, when the following resolution will be proposed:—

That the capital of the company be reduced from £75,000, divided into 75,000 shares of £1 each, to £64,500, divided into 40,000 shares of £1 each (at present unissued), and 35,000 shares of 14/ each, and that such reduction be effected by cancelling capital which has been lost or is unrepresented by available assets to the extent of 6/ per share upon each of the 35,000 shares which have been issued, and reducing the nominal amount of the said 35,000 shares to 14/ per share.

Should the above resolution be passed by the requisite majority, it will be submitted for confirmation as a special resolution to a further extraordinary meeting, which will be held on March 28.

QUEENSLAND NATIONAL BANK.

At the ninetieth half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of the Queensland National Bank, Limited, Mr. Geo. E. Bunning, chairman of directors, presided. The chairman, in moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, said that the result of their operations for the six months gave a net profit of £52,159, the whole of which, in accordance with their previous decision, had been transferred to private depositors' repayment fund, and a bonus of 4d in the £ on the face value of interminable inscribed deposit stock would be distributed to stockholders on March 30, simultaneously with the half-yearly interest payment. On November 29 last they made a special payment of 3d in the £ on the face value of the stock, which absorbed £38,645, and unless something unforeseen occurred, a further payment of a similar amount would be made on April 25. The profits for the current half-year ending June 30 next would probably be sufficient to enable them to make the final payment to stockholders, and he hoped to be in a position to announce at the next general meeting in August that this had eventuated, in which case the profit for the half-year ending December 31 next would be available for the payment of a dividend to the shareholders. Considering the general upset of exchange operations with London owing to the war, the business of the bank had been wonderfully well maintained. The bank's position was extremely strong, and it would be wise to keep it so, as there was bound to be a period of depression after the War Loan money, now being expended by the Commonwealth Government for war purposes, ceased, as there could be no doubt that this large expenditure was causing a temporary and artificial prosperity, particularly in the capital cities, and the cessation of this expenditure must make itself felt.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The placing of the sixth war loan is proceeding apace, effective use being made of the newly-created organisation.

Those best informed are of the opinion that a new record will be easily established.

As was expected, the 5 per cents. are attracting many whose income tax rate is light, and there are indications that many who have never subscribed before will do so on this occasion.

The deposits in the trading banks within the Commonwealth have increased by over 11 millions sterling during the last twelve months.

During the same period the advances have decreased by about six millions.

The meaning of this combination of circumstances as affecting the loan is obvious.

Imports into the Commonwealth which were valued at 43 millions during the last half of 1916, diminished to 29 millions during the last half of 1917, despite the fact that prices were higher during the later period.

Here, again, the meaning of this is that more money will be available for the Treasurer.

Statistics of exports are no longer available, which is very annoying to the statistician, though it may be necessary as a war precautionary measure.

"The Hub," Limited, has been registered with a capital of £100,000, to carry on business in Pitt-street as drapers and departmental stores. The first directors are Dr. F. A. Bennet, and Messrs. J. W. Kingsborough, J. R. McGregor, and H. J. Richards, and the signatories to the Articles of Association are.—Dr. F. A. Bennet, C. A. Le Maistre Walker, H. Moxham, H. J. Richards, Mrs. Julia Richards, S. H. Hedworth, J. W. Kingsborough, and Mrs. F. A. Bennet.

The wheat crop for the whole of the Commonwealth for the current season is estimated at 120 millions of bushels, against 150 millions last season and 180 millions the previous year.

These are the three biggest years in the history of wheat growing in Australia, so it cannot be alleged that the farmer has not risen to the occasion in a most patriotic way.

It is true that the farmer has been paid a good price for most of his wheat, but he has laboured under many disadvantages, and has had many worries.

Mr. Edwin S. Phippard has been unanimously elected by the head office board of the Insurance Office of Australia, Ltd. (the I.O.A.), to fill the vacant seat caused by the death of the late Mr. John M'Laughlin.

The directors of the Adelaide Steamship Company have declared a dividend of one shilling a share for the half year to December 31.

The Wallaroo-Mount Lyell Fertilisers has declared a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum.

F.A.Q. WHEAT.

58½ LBS. PER BUSHEL.

Yesterday the fair average quality standard for the wheat of this State for this season was fixed at 58½lb to the Imperial bushel by the grain trade sectional committee of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce. For some time past samples had been received from the north, west, and south at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, and the committee yesterday made its computations with a quantity of grain, one-tenth being composed of northern samples, three-tenths of western samples, and six-tenths of southern samples—the proportions being those which the wheat areas of the divisions of the State bore to the whole wheat acreage of the State.

Among those present were Messrs. F. B. Guthrie (official weigher), R. S. Drummond and E. Harris (representing the Department of Agriculture), A. K. Trethowan, M.L.C., and T. I. Campbell (president and secretary respectively of the Farmers and Settlers' Association), J. B. Trivett (Government Statistician), J. L. M'Alister (superintendent of weights and measures), H. Lord (New South Wales Chamber of Agriculture), and Mr. J. Maitland Paxton, together with the following members of the committee:—Messrs. L. Rossell (chairman), J. S. Brunton, F. A. Crago, R. W. Gillespie, H. E. Horsburgh, M. J. Hurley, D. M'Corquodale, and A. Tubb.

The weighing was done on M'Quirk's patent scale, and, after obtaining the official weigher's figures, the chairman (Mr. Rossell) declared the standard to be 58½lb per Imperial bushel. In many districts during the harvesting operations heavy rain set in, and thus caused a great quantity of wheat to be bleached—a matter which was taken into consideration in arriving at the quality of grain required for the mixture from each district. After the declaration of the standard the meeting carried with acclamation a vote of thanks to Mr. Guthrie for his services as weigher. Mr. Guthrie suitably replied. The chairman also expressed gratification at the presence of representatives from the Government, the Chamber of Agriculture, and others. In responding, Messrs. Lord, Campbell, and M'Alister, expressed their appreciation in being represented at the weighing, and referred to the fair and equitable manner in which the weighings were conducted by the chamber.

In reply to a remark by Mr. Campbell regarding the difference in weighings as shown by the chondrometer and M'Quirk's scale respectively, the chairman intimated that the State Wheat Office recognised this, and had issued instructions to its receiving agents for chondrometer weighings to be taken as approximately 1lb per bushel less than M'Quirk's scale.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

All grocery houses were buyers of parcels yesterday. There were no sellers. Imported lines were all difficult to procure, even from the agents. Keen's mustards continued good property, owing to the prohibition against the importation of dry commodities in tin containers. Prices were irregular. Some quotations were, quarters 15/ per doz., halves 23/, and pounds 41/. This was for d.s.f. In some quarters these prices were slightly lower, in others considerably higher. Reckitt's blue was advanced 5/ a gross, being quoted at 14/6 a gross, as against 9/6 last week. The difficulty in this line is in obtaining ultramarine, which was formerly bought from Germany. All pickles were put up 1/ a dozen, being quoted at 10/3 and 9/3 a dozen, according to quality. Asparagus was found to be very short. Fish was firmer. American fresh herrings sold at 12/6 to 13/6, according to brand, in tomato sauce 13/6 to 14/6, and kippered to 15/. Trefavenne sardines were unprocurable, Portuguese halves were worth 8/9 to 10/, according to brand, quarters sold at 5/ to 6/9. Norwegian halves had sales, but very few at 12/6, quarters were in fair supply at 8/, eighths at 6/, and sixteenths at 4/6. Regarding the dried fruit crop, reports from Mildura are to the effect that currants are expected to be available there about the end of this month, and so should reach Sydney the first week in March. Sultanas are expected to be ready about the third week in March, and lexias about the end of March. Local vinegars were in keen demand yesterday on account of the scarcity of casks. Most manufacturers sold more readily to those who provided their own containers.

In lines of Eastern produce cloves were yesterday advanced to 2/ a pound. Desiccated cocoanut was better property on account of an advance in Colombo of ½d per lb, and then there was the question of freight. Macaroni in 1lb packets was selling at 5½d per lb, and cut at 5d. Vermicelli and spaghetti, in 1lbs, were each worth 5½d.

All oils were very dear. It might be possible to purchase Italian olive oil at 27/6 net, but the general quotation was 29/, usual terms. A little Spanish oil was available, and more would be on the market were it possible to get freight. Fair quantities have been bought in Spain. Cotton seed oil and castor oil continued at very high prices.

Branbags advanced yesterday to 9/9 for prompt delivery. Some holders quoted higher. Stocks on spot were concentrated in very few hands, and, in addition to extremely high prices at Calcutta, where the mills have expressed a desire not to manufacture this line, information received by cable yesterday was that the February jute steamers had been taken off the berth, the inference being that they had been requisitioned. The cable added that there was no word of the steamers being replaced by others. The taking off of these steamers will also affect the market for woolpacks, since Queensland is now becoming a buyer. Quotations yesterday were still at 5/4½ for spot lots, with some quarters asking 5/6. Calcutta quoted 4/10 c.i.f. and e., plus war risk, for April-May-June shipment. Sellers of next season's cornsacks withdrew. Calcutta quoted 9/11 c.i.f. and e, plus war risk. Spot lots were quoted nominally at 9/6, but this could have been shaded.

LONDON METAL QUOTATIONS.

The Australian Metal Exchange reports that the London closing mean metal quotations for February 25 were as follow:—

Copper, stan., spot	£110/5/	Ton	Unch.
Copper, 3 months	110/5/	Ton	Unch.

The quotations for February 23 were:—

Silver, standard, 3/6¼ oz.

Silver fine, 3/9¾ oz.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

An active business was transacted in dairy produce lines along Sussex-street yesterday, the outstanding feature of the market being the extreme shortage of all descriptions of bacon. Agents in many cases were three weeks behind hand with their deliveries. Hams, for which there was a strong demand, were also scarce. Butter was plentiful; the Malanbar arrived from the Manning River with 1747 boxes. Honey was difficult to dispose of.

PIG SALES.

At the abattoir auction yesterday 1486 pigs came under the hammer, and a good clearance was made at values which had practically no quotable change. Porkers made up the majority with only a moderate proportion of extra prime light-weights. An increased number of baconers were yarded, with a good showing of backfatters. Full attendance of buyers operated freely, and bacon values showed a slight improvement, with light-weight porkers selling particularly well, heavy sorts were a little lower, while backfatters were a little weaker.

SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

BARREL-SETTERS' STRIKE.

MEN CLAIM A LOCKOUT.

LITHGOW, Tuesday.

In connection with the suspension of a thousand men at the Small Arms Factory owing to four barrel-straighteners leaving their work, the district committee of the Amalgamated Engineers last night unanimously carried the following resolution:—

"That the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, as a society, fully recognises the absolute necessity for providing our brothers at the front with the necessary weapons with which to fight the enemies of the country, and would ask the reading public to observe that (1) the only A.S.E. member among the barrel-straighteners left his work without the consent of the committee; (2) we immediately instructed him to resume; (3) he was acting on those instructions when he was refused admission at the gate house; (4) 1000 men were then locked out, thus proving conclusively to the committee that the lack of barrel-straighteners is not the real cause underlying the present lockout, and recognising the heinous crime of sacrificing the life blood of our soldiers, all our men, including our one barrel-setter, are prepared to resume work immediately."

In a further statement, published for general information, it is pointed out that the management has, for no apparent reason, indiscriminately locked out approximately 1000 men. This is illustrated by the fact that four barrel-straighteners have previously kept the factory going, whereas now, though three are still working, it has been necessary to close down. The committee states that it is prepared to prove that the barrel-setters' dispute is not the true cause of the lockout, and adds that the tool room work would not be in the least affected by the barrel-setters, and that there is sufficient work there to last for 18 months. It is also claimed that the other departments are similarly situated. The committee, which speaks on behalf of members, considers that there is some ulterior motive in the drastic action taken. The immediate cause of the three setters leaving work is said to be due to bringing into the department proper a man who broke his agreement to strike some months ago. A royal commission is also requested.

Seen in regard to the above, the manager reiterated that the position was brought about by a portion of the barrel-setting staff striking. He also said that the men would be re-employed as the stock of finished barrels increased. There appears little hope of an early general resumption. This will be hastened if the two straighteners whom the management is willing to employ return. It is expected that some of the employees will be off work for six weeks or two months. Many have left for Sydney and other parts.

NIGHT SHIFT ABOLISHED.

It was stated by officials to-day that the management had informed the Factory Union executive that members of that organisation would be well advised to seek employment elsewhere, as the night shift would not be continued. It had been found too expensive, and the plant had been duplicated to such an extent that only one shift a day was necessary. It was further stated that preference of employment would be given to returned soldiers, who would be gradually installed into positions they were able to fill. The manager stated that instructions had been received from Melbourne to put off men at once to prevent a repetition of the previous trouble, which cost the department £40,000 without a single rifle being produced.

MINING.

In the mining division of the Stock Exchange yesterday interest was again centred on the silver section. B.H. Proprietary opened at 71/6, an advance of 1/9 on Monday's closing price, and subsequent cash sales were made at increasing figures until 75/ was reached. Later cash transactions were effected at 73/6, and for prompt delivery at 74/. The closing price of parcels for delivery in six weeks was 73/6. British, old, was /6 firmer at 40/6. Norths were unaltered at 62/6. Junction, con., which was the exception to the general firmness ruling, opened 3 lower at 11/5, and eased a further 1 to 11/4.

The copper and gold sections were practically featureless, and although tin propositions were responsible for a fair number of sales during the course of the day, there was very little investment in quotations.

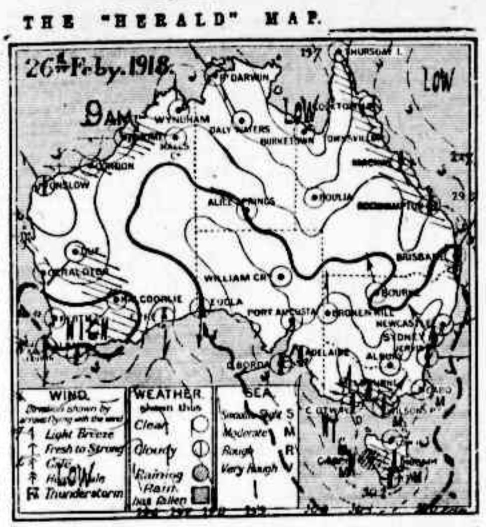
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



Since 9 a.m. on Monday the centre of the Continental high pressure has moved in a E.S.E. direction about 600 miles, and is now situated about the west of Bass Straits. The presence of the main body of this system has been associated with rather dry conditions generally, which are still likely to be experienced during the next 24 hours. However, as the casting was made, the axis of the centre became so tilted as to influence a change of wind in coastal parts of New South Wales from west to south-east, the latter being squally and strong on the southern seaboard, and bringing cloud there. The Antarctic disturbance having been dislodged by the high is now over the Tasman Sea, near New Zealand, where it has gained considerably in central barometric value. The reading at the Bluff is as low as 29.28 inches, there being almost the difference of one barometric inch between the last mentioned place and Hobart. To this steep gradient are due the squally and strong S.W. to S.E. winds between our coast and New Zealand. A tropical depression is still located between the coast of Queensland and New Caledonia, but no definite storm system has yet come into operation. Tropical influences are also in evidence in various parts of the Continent, more particularly in the Eastern States, where a series of "dips" in the isobars is shown. But gradually increasing temperature is so far the only result. The deep Antarctic disturbance over the Tasman Sea is now depleted as but portion of a very extensive low pressure belt over the Great Southern Ocean. Present indications favour gradually increasing temperature and fine generally, except for a passing shower or two on the seaboard.

Ocean Forecast.—Smooth to moderate seas. No reports from Queensland coast.

CHEAP CASH REGISTERS
are dangerous. They can be bought from firms or dealers who have no special incentive to be scrupulous, and who have no reputation to maintain.
You should be suspicious of any Cash Register offered by a firm or dealer at a "bargain" price. Either it is badly repaired, out of order, antique, or not in good demand.
Better stick to the original makers. We have a reputation to maintain. We buy and sell Second-hand Registers that are worth having. Dealers are welcome to the others, which they offer as "bargains."
Inspect our genuine offers first. You will get honest service and real value.

CASH REGISTERS.
Why do other Firms' travellers tell us your registers run on I.W.W. principles? (asks a stream of people daily).
We reply, THINK AGAIN!
The exact measure of their ferocity is the exact measure of their real respect—a magnificent testimonial.
And "we" are not ungrateful for their pertinacious (if unwise) involuntary advertisement.
See the "AMERICAN."

THE "BEALE" PLAYER PIANO
HAS EIGHT EXPRESSION DEVICES.
There's the automatic tracker for making faulty rolls play correctly. The expression lever controls the "Rise and fall" of tone in both treble and bass. Then there are two soft pedal buttons—one for bass—one for treble. The auto-sustainer gives the correct pedalling automatically—but the same effect can be secured at the Player's will—merely by using the loud pedal buttons. The tempo lever affords all movements from largo to presto. Add to this wonderful control the technique of the mechanism and the instrument stands the most soulful of all self-playing Pianos.
They also serve who buy a War Loan Bond.

WYCHBURY PREPARATORY SCHOOL.
BOARDERS and DAY BOYS, from the age of six, prepared for the Great Public Schools.
The EXCELLENCE and ABUNDANCE of the Food in this school, together with Compulsory Games in its large grounds of 22 ACRES, ENSURE PERFECT HEALTH.
The various forms average only 13 boys, to which fact may be attributed the remarkable results of "Wychbury" teaching.
An Expert in Education, whose son, going on from "Wychbury" to Newington College, secured, when only 14, an "A" in Seven Subjects in the recent Intermediate Examination, writes to the Headmaster:—"IF ONLY ALL PARENTS COULD REALISE, AS I DO, WHAT A 'WYCHBURY' GROUNDING MEANS TO THEIR BOYS, YOU WOULD BE OVERWHELMED WITH PUPILS."
PROSPECTUS and LIST of SCHOLARSHIPS won by "Wychbury" Boys may be had on application to the Headmaster,

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

THE CHARMS OF WOY WOY.

'Tis risky to bet
They tell us, and yet
This tip you will find is worth noting—
Just bet a long price
That Ettalong's nice
For fishing and bathing, and boating.
(A. Rickard and Co.,
You'll notice below,
Some Ettalong prices are quoting.)

And the prices are, you'll be astonished to find, exceptionally low for such high-class land. They range from only 30/ per foot for absolute beach frontages, with an uninterrupted view of the big, bounding, billowy ocean, and the best of surfing, fishing, boating, etc., right at your hand.

You could never surpass the splendid value of these choice allotments, and, as they're selling quickly, you'd better hurry up and make your selection. Remember, Ettalong Beach Estate is only 15 minutes' motor ride from Woy Woy station, and only 30/ per foot for glorious blocks. Camp sites from just £12/10/ each.

Then we have other delightful properties in this gorgeous fairyland, which are well worthy of your inspection. There's Pretty Beach Estate, and Pretty Beach Extension, both of which are two extremely popular spots on the Brisbane Water, and possess all the necessary conveniences for residents on the properties. Charming Waterside Blocks are for sale at from £17/10/ each.

Empire Bay is another well-known and most delightful pleasure resort. It has excellent fishing, boating, bathing, etc., within a few yards of the estate, and you can purchase very cheap allotments from only £10 each.

Close to our glorious Ettalong Beach is Restwell Estate—a charming property, with fine views, and a good surf beach. Rare value in choice allotments, from £18/10/ each.

A BOON FOR BENEDICKS.

If weary of a city life
Just take your young and pretty wife
Away from Sydney's gritty life
To where sweet Nature charms.
We know your inability
To equal the fertility,
Or the accessibility
Of Bankstown's little farms.

You can grow anything on a Bankstown Farmlet, from pea vines to whiskers, and we've got some real dinkum stuff on Greenacre Park Estate, suitable for fruit, flower, vegetable-growing, and poultry. Acre blocks from £40/10/ each, close to the station, and in a good position.

Wattawa Heights Estate is the property that's in the boom just now. It has such a splendid position, high and healthy, commanding extensive views, with a fresh, bracing air, and possessing deep, rich chocolate soil, suitable for growing all the home necessities by way of fruit, vegetables, etc. The allotments are extremely large, so that you can reckon on saving a good deal in greengrocer's and butcher's bills if you live on this lovely estate.

Big, beautiful blocks from 11/6 per foot, or £28 each. Adjoining Wattawa Heights Estate is our fine old record-breaker—Condell Park Estate, on which there are still some good home sites for sale from 14/6 per foot, with good garden soil, handy to the township.

In a nice, bright, and healthy position is our New Era Estate, which offers profitable investment in cosy allotments from only 15/6 per foot.

Beaconsfield—that well-known Estate—close to the junction of George's River-road and Chapel-street, has some splendid blocks with good soil, from £25 each.

If you take the regular motor 'bus from Bankstown Station you will quickly arrive at Sydney Park, where we have some nice residential sites from only £17/10/ each.

But the champion of all our Bankstown Estates is Boronia Park. It is about 3 miles from the station, and adjoins the township of East Hills. The soil is of the greatest fertility, unequalled for market gardening, fruit-growing, and poultry-keeping. Its surroundings are ideally rural, and you simply couldn't go wrong in buying a block of this lovely land. The farms are from £25 per acre, with half acre blocks from £28/10/ each. Charming Home Sites, from £22/10/ per block.

DON'T WASTE TIME.

Jack and Jill went up the hill
To get the parson's blessing;
Now Jack and Jill at Wentworthville
Are steadily progressing.

That's the programme. Find your Jill, buy the ring, settle down on a Rickard Farmlet, start making money right away, and live happily ever afterwards. A fine crop of golden googies can be grown on our charming fertile and absolutely enchanting Dorothy Mount Estate, which is situated at Wentworthville, that flourishing township on the Great Western line, 16 miles from Sydney, and a suburb of Parramatta.

Dorothy Mount Estate is only a few minutes' walk from the station, overlooks the township, commands delightful panoramic views, and has a fresh, bracing climate.

The land is of the best, and admirably adapted for market gardening, fruit, and the position ideal for fowls and bees.

The Wentworthville Farms offer a wide scope for energetic agriculturists to make easy money; they are of deep rich soil, handy to the town and station, and unsurpassed for farming, poultry, etc.

Farms from 2½ acres at from £105 per block.

Just about 1 mile from Wentworthville is our superb Girraween Estate, situated right at Toongabbie Station, with a particularly healthy climate, and all conveniences such as Church, Post-office, and School on the property.

We have some very attractive home sites to offer, in this go-ahead part of a thriving district, from only £25 per block.

On these fine Farmlets you can lead the free and happy life of the country, and make a sure and profitable living, almost within coo-ee of the city.

THE GARDEN OF NEW ENGLAND.

FURRACABAD FARMS,
GLEN INNES.

These Farms (2 to 4 miles from the town), are improved, fenced, cleared, and cultivated. They are ready for occupation and working forthwith. Most of them have good frontage to Furracabad Creek—a fine perennial stream. Water is obtainable at moderate depth by sinking wells.

The rainfall is 33 inches, well distributed throughout the year. Drought is unknown. The elevation is 3500 feet above sea level, and the climate is delightful.

The soil is rich and deep, and very suitable for Orcharding—excellent Cherry and Apple Crops being obtainable. The district is one of the best for Dairying, and the town has an Up-to-date Butter Factory. Poultry-raising and other side lines give good results.

GLEN INNES is one of THE MOST PROGRESSIVE COUNTRY TOWNS. The increase in population from 1901 to 1911 was only exceeded by one other country town in the State. It has all the institutions found in go-ahead centres, including an excellent District school, at which a modern High School education is available.

The Farms range from 71 to 178 ACRES IN AREA—by taking two adjoining farms an area of 282 acres can be secured. Prices are from £8 to £8/10/ per acre.

TERMS: 10 per cent. deposit, and annual payments of 10 per cent. Buyers can pay off at any time.

Interest on half-yearly balances—6 per cent.

Arrangements can be made for inspection at any time.

STOTT AND HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE,
"Remington House," Liverpool-street, Sydney (FACING HYDE PARK).

LADIES,
A FARMER, CALLING AT A DENTIST'S, promptly and CHEERFULLY stated his Business as soon as he entered the operating room, and rubbing his hands with evident glee, said: "A TOOTH TO BE PULLED, AND I'LL PAY NOTHING EXTRA FOR GAS. Just haul it out, even if it does hurt." The Dentist smiled. "You're plucky, sir," he said. "Let me see the tooth, please."
"Oh, isn't ME that's got the toothache at all: IT'S MY WIFE. She'll be here in a minute."
NOW, THAT MAN WAS CRUEL.
Few husbands are so callous as this one, but there are different methods of cruelty. Say, Lady, have you still got that nice, little nest egg you worked for in the Bank you had when you got married, or has it bit by bit gone gradually into the household for this or that? If so, does your husband ever say, "Here's something on account of what I borrowed? If he does not there's a certain amount of unforgivable callousness here displayed. Would you like to see your Bank balance as it was? THEN SEE US, AND ARRANGE FOR JUST ONE LITTLE LESSON IN CHOCOLATE AND SWEET-MAKING. We will put you in the way of making real good money AT ONCE AT HOME, NO OUTLAY. Or, if your money is intact, would you like to add to your account? THEN STILL SEE US. Our proposition of ONE FREE LESSON, WITH FREE MATERIAL to make a few lbs. of Chocolates, etc., the English way, is just the MOST GENUINE AND SIMPLEST THING in the whole wide world.
WE WANT YOU ONLY ONE HALF DAY.
After that we guarantee you competent. If you are not, then do not buy our COPYRIGHTS No. 399,795. THEY PRODUCE THE VERY BEST THE WORLD HAS SEEN. Come and see for yourselves. 'Frisco, N. York, Chicago, Paris, London. None can boast the show our N.S.W. pupils have made. ALL ARE WELCOME.

HEMISPHERE, if there is a person with one of our COMMON-SENSE WORKS LOLLY RECIPES which seems fractious in your delicate hands, wants to kick over the traces sort of business, please call in, and let us show you where you are erring. WE AND MATERIAL are at your service FREE. WE HAVE NO FEES. We do NOT hold classes. WE POSITIVELY GUARANTEE COMPETENCY. OUR POST TEACHING IS SUPERB. NECESSARIES AND MATERIALS FREE, CARR. PD., TO YOUR DOOR. One Firm, and the Original Firm only offers such terms, viz.,
